Soaking Thunderstorm Brings Repeat Floods

Sporadic Blackouts; Tides Remain Tame

For the third time in a month, Marin's lowlands sank beneath flood waters last night and today as a night-long thunderstorm dumped torrential rains on the Bay Area.

No tidal flooding was reported as a 5.9-foot high tide came and went between 5 and 6 a.m., but Corte Madera Creek again flooded Granton Park homes near College of Marin at midnight, and the area remained under water this morning as the creek ran bankfull.

The creek stood at 15 feet and 10 inches at 2 a.m. today at the Ross fire station, compared to the record 18-foot depth in the Dec. 20 flood.

Early morning reports told of light flooding on Kent Avenue in Kentfield next to Granton Park, closing of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Kentfield, and brief closing of Bon Air Road between Larkspur and Greenbrae.

The California Highway Patrol reported slides on Shoreline Highway north and south of Stinson Beach but did not have exact locations.

Kentfield firemen began warning Granton Park residents at 11:30 p.m. of the flood threat and called out its volunteers an hour later as the creek continued to rise.

Larkspur police reported Magnolia Avenue opposite College Park was narrowed by water to one lane in each direction, but at 7:30 a.m. reported no homes flooded in low-lying College Park.

Corte Madera Creek, contained in a concrete flood channel in Larkspur, was still within banks, reported Capt. Charles J. Mattos.

Electricity was knocked out at San Anselmo City Hall at 10:50 p.m., but an emergency generator took over and the city council meeting continued without interruption.

At Forest Knolls, Mrs. Earl Frank of 201 Castro Street reported Paper Mill Creek flooding through her yard and across the road, carrying away a barbecue and stacked lumber from the residence.

"I'm scared to death of this creek," she said, reporting water was the highest she had ever seen it.

In nearby Woodacre, rainfall for the 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. was reported at a whopping 6.06 inches, 5.29 of it since 5 p.m. yesterday.

At around 8 a.m., San Anselmo Creek and Sleepy Hollow Creek began overflowing and San Anselmo police began notifying merchants and residents of flooding danger at low-lying residences and in stores in San Anselmo Avenue. Police set up barricades in Morningside Court to keep traffic from making waves on flooded streets. The 24-hour rainfall at San Anselmo was 4.6 inches at 8 a.m.

West Marin Towns Appeal Burning Rule

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Appeals by Stinson Beach and Bolinas officials for exemptions from the ban on backyard burning were strongly opposed yesterday by the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District's staff before the district hearing board.

The regional district's chief counsel, Matthew S. Walker, argued that "we simply have got to face up to the fact that if we want clean air in the Bay Area, there are going to be costs and inconveniences."

The three-man board took the two variance applications under submission, and may rule on them when they reconvene Tuesday.

The only other application for a variance, sought some months ago by the City of Brentwood in Contra Costa County, was rejected by the hearing board.

Stinson Beach's fire chief, retired Army Col. George H. White, said the district was "going overboard in some of these matters." He predicted a "witch hunt, with inspectors going into houses to see if you're burning the morning paper." (Fireplaces are not affected, however, by the ban, which went into effect Jan. 1.)

White, representing the Stinson Beach Fire Protection District, asked for a variance to allow backyard burning of combustible household trash. Many of the small community's 300 residences are occupied by "indigents and retired people" who could not afford the cost of having their trash hauled 18 miles to a dump, he said.

As a result of the ban, White told the board, trash will accumulate in and around residences and add to already acute fire hazards.

Customers Win Break On Gas Bills

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Public Utilities Commission Tuesday approved nearly $3.7 million in reductions in gas bills to consumers in the state.

The PUC also approved a slight cost increase for Southern Pacific Railroad in commuter revenue, and an increase in California intrastate fares for Trans World Airlines.

The gas reductions apply to Pacific Gas and Electric, Southern California Gas Company and Southern Counties Gas Company.

The decreases are based on estimated 1970 sales and result from a 5 per cent reduction in surtaxes to the companies.

The PUC estimated the reductions would amount to $950,000 for PG&E, $1,804,000 for Southern California and $926,500 for Southern Counties.

DON PINKERTON
To run for state senate

Tonsils Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Joan Kennedy, wife of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., underwent a tonsillectomy and adenoidectomy at Lenox Hill Hospital today. Her physician said the procedure went well.

Solano Civic Leader Joins Senate Race

Fairfield Mayor Don Pinkerton today officially declared his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the seat held by retiring State Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael.

"Political philosphy must be updated if we are to meet the challenge of changing times and preserve the heritage of the systems under which our country was founded," Pinkerton said.

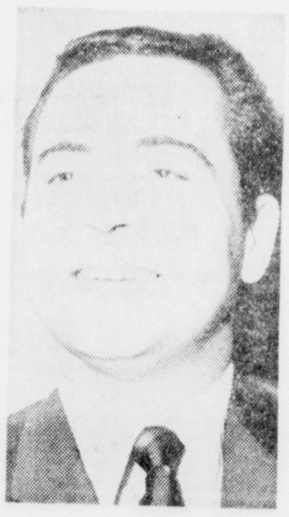

Problems that must be dealt with by a candidate are high taxes, effective law enforcement, a good educational system and ecology, he said.

Pinkerton became the third announced candidate for the seat held for the past 20 years

Enters supervisors race

Baptiste Seeking Gnoss' Job

Arnold M. Baptiste, resident of the Loma Verde section of Novato and president of the North Marin Federation of Homeowners Associations, today announced that he would be a candidate for the board of supervisors from the Fifth District.

He becomes the first to throw his hat into the June primary race for the seat which will be vacated by William A. Gnoss Dec. 31. Novato Councilman J. Wayne Womack who ran once before for supervisor, has said that he will be a candidate, but

Court Orders Five States To Integrate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled 6 to 2 Wednesday that public schools attended by about 300,000 students in five southern states must be desegregated by Feb. 1.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice Potter Stewart objected, saying the court should have heard argument before acting, so that "the varying problems" of individual school districts could have been explored.

The decision reversed a Dec. 1 ruling by the U.S. Circuit

Tanker Safe

SAN PEDRO (UPI) — The crippled tanker Connecticut, which nearly sank 240 miles off the California coast last Friday, was safely docked in Los Angeles harbor today.

An oceangoing tug towed the 37,000-ton tanker, laden with 14 million gallons of jet fuel, to her berth after she developed a leak in a propeller shaft alley.

A Coast Guard helicopter lowered portable pumps and the crew was able to lower the flooding water to a safe level to be towed back to California.

Capital Wedding

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President and Mrs. Nixon will attend the wedding of a daughter and a son of two cabinet officials Jan. 31 before a glittering gathering of Washington's top officialdom.

Engraved invitations went out last weekend for the marriage of Nancy Ann Hardin, 21, daughter of Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin, and Douglas Langston Rogers, 23, son of Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

The Nixons' daughters Tricia, 23, and Julie Eisenhower, 21, and their son-in-law, David Eisenhower, 21, are on a guest list which runs into the hundreds.

March Ailing

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)— Television personality Hal March has re-entered UCLA Medical Center for treatment following lung surgery last November, according to a hospital spokesman.

The spokesman and family refused to comment on March's condition, admitting only that he was undergoing treatment.

March, 49, was forced last month to give up his job as host of the daytime show, "It's Your Bet." He was once master of ceremonies of the quiz show, "The $64,000 Question," which was cancelled because of a payoff scandal.

Marines Ailing

CAMP PENDLETON (UPI) — A 290-man Marine training company was placed in isolation Tuesday following disclosure of the third meningitis case here since the first of the year, base officials said.

Pvt. Gene William O'Brien, 20, Greencastle, Ind., was admitted to the base hospital Jan. 9, but the diagnosis was not made until Tuesday. He was listed in serious condition.

Marine officials said B Company, 1st Training Bat., 2nd Infantry Regiment had been placed under close medical supervision.

The two other Marines afflicted with the disease also were reported in serious condition. Their companies also have been placed in isolation.

Dope Raid Suit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Three cities, a county and a state have been named as defendants in a $6,950,000 damage suit filed by the relatives of a Whittier man who was accidentally shot and killed during a narcotics raid.

The suit filed Tuesday on behalf of the victim's wife, Linda Lucy Dyer, her two sons, her mother and sister, named the cities of Vernon, Whittier and Lynwood, and Los Angeles County and the State of California.

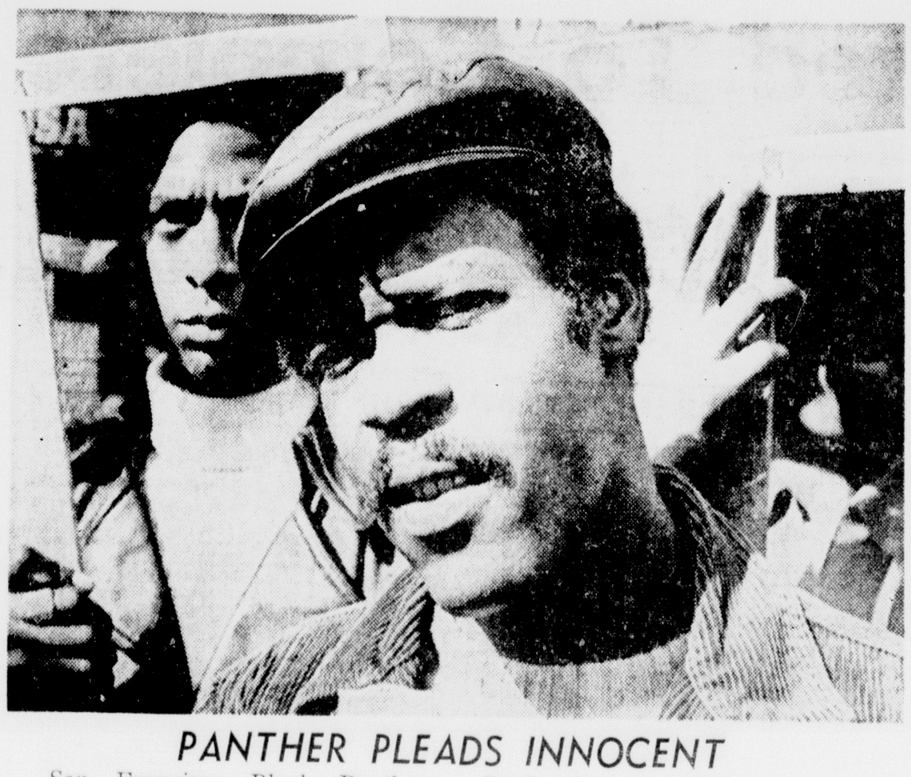

Heyward Henry Dyer, 22, was killed Oct. 3 when the rifle of Vernon police Sgt. Frank Sweeney accidentally discharged through the floor of an apartment striking Dyer in the apartment below.

PANTHER PLEADS INNOCENT

San Francisco Black Panther chief of staff Dave Hilliard, 27, has pleaded innocent to charges of threatening the life of President Richard M. Nixon. After the pleading yesterday, Federal Judge Lloyd Burke denied a motion to dismiss the charge, which stems from an antiwar rally speech in which Hilliard allegedly declared, "We will kill Mr. Nixon."

School Boss Sees Drop In Intelligence

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The average intelligence level of Californians has dropped since World War II because of the huge influx of new residents, says Max Rafferty.

"Prior to World War II we had a relatively select and homogenous population," Rafferty said Tuesday.

But, said the superintendent of public instruction, since the war huge numbers of persons migrated to California, swelling the population and dropping the intelligence level of the state's residents close to the national average of 100.

"We're right about there (100) now," Rafferty said. "Some years back it was up around 106 or 107. The tendency is for large numbers to strike a norm. The more mixed the population is the more it is average."

To Register Voters

Reagan Undecided On Traynor Successor

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Reagan says a philosophy "similar to mine" would not be a handicap for a prospective appointee to the California Supreme Court.

Reagan, a Republican, is faced with the court's first vacancy since he became governor.

He told his news conference Tuesday he has not yet decided whether to elevate an associate justice to the post of chief justice or appoint a new jurist from outside the court.

Roger Traynor has retired as chief justice.

A reporter asked Reagan if he would appoint a conservative.

"You know me, I don't use labels," Reagan said.

Then he added, "Let me say that if his philosophy was similar to mine, I would not consider that a handicap."

Reagan frequently has been critical of civil rights court decisions, saying they often neglect the rights of the great mass of citizens.

Associate Justice Louis H. Burke, 65, a Republican, has been mentioned as a possible appointee to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Reagan said he had had no discussion with President Nixon or any other federal official about Burke and the U.S. court vacancy.

Reagan said the State Supreme Court appointee will be "the highest type we can possibly find."

"I think it would have to be someone who is just eminently qualified in that field, and on the same basis that we have been appointing judges," he said.

The selection will have to be confirmed by the Commission on Judicial Appointments.

Stanford Set To Divorce Institute

STANFORD (AP) — Stanford University trustees have agreed on final terms for a divorce of the school from Stanford Research Institute, a target last spring of violent student protests against its war-related research projects.

The institute, which occupies sites adjacent to the university, was incorporated in 1946, employs about 3,000 and had revenue of about $58 million on 750 research projects last year.

In the past Stanford University trustees have been the board for SRI and about 50 Stanford professors are SRI consultants.

Tuesday's announcement said the separation agreement needs only to be put into legal language and signed. It provides that SRI will:

— Function as a nonprofit research organization legally separated from the university.

— Drop the name Stanford Research Institute within five years.

— Elect its own board of trustees to replace the school trustees who have constituted it.

— Pay one per cent of its gross income to the university starting next year and for each year after until the annual total reaches $25 million, after which the rate will drop to one-half per cent.

The separation was agreed upon by trustees last May.

War-related research, with chemical and biological warfare and counter-insurgency coming in for special attention, was the target of student demonstrations last April and May.

At the time of the demonstrations, SRI had only two contracts totaling $50,000 for chemical and biological warfare, it said, among government contracts that made up about 70 per cent of its $64 million volume for 1968.

Explosive Issue

LONDON (AP) — Staff at the Chinese diplomatic mission called the police when they found a ticking parcel left on the doorstep. Inside was an alarm clock and two copies of The Thoughts of Chairman Mao.

Gunman Goes On A Wild Slaying Spree

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A berserk gunman, breaking into homes at random Tuesday night, killed two persons and wounded three others in San Francisco's Mission District.

As 75 policemen used dogs to stretch a 10-square-block dragnet in the city's southern section, the coroner's office said tests would be made today to determine if one victim had been raped while she was dying.

An all points bulletin was issued for the arrest of Raymond Scott, 36, who had been paroled from Folsom Prison after being convicted of rape. Scott also is wanted in Davis where a man and two women were held captive 26 hours last weekend.

The dead were identified by the coroner's office as Cecario Cinfio, 50, and Miss Yolanda Daniele, 31.

San Francisco General Hospital spokesmen identified the wounded as Cinfio's wife, Domenica, 50; Arthur Hughes, 67; and Dudley Kennedy, 46.

In addition, Gloria Gray was grazed on the arm by a bullet when she stepped onto her porch.

Capt. Lee gave this account: "The man apparently entered the Cinfio house through a back door and was surprised by the couple, who were watching television.

"He shot both of them, ran out and tried to commandeer a car, shooting the motorist.

"Then he raped, shot and stabbed Miss Daniele two blocks away."

All the victims were shot by a .38-caliber revolver, he added.

A white coat was left in Miss Daniele's apartment and a briefcase containing identification and a note saying "death to pigs" was found in the Cinfio home, police said.

Police described Scott as a six-foot Negro, about 175 pounds, and wearing sideburns and a goatee.

Scott was sent to prison in 1952 and was paroled last May to work on the Davis campus of the University of California as an animal caretaker at the school's agricultural unit.

After two women and a man were held at gunpoing Sunday in a Davis apartment, Davis police obtained a warrant charging Scott with 18 offenses, including rape and attempteed murder.

WALDEN, Colo. (AP) — Each year the U.S. Forest Service office at Walden buys about 3,000 bushels of cones from Lodgepole pines picked by mountain hikers. The price is $3 a bushel. Each bushel produces about a half pound of seed, used to replant cutover and burned-over forest lands.

Thunderstorm, Floods Bring New Miseries

ees this morning reported "water all over the damned place," but no streets closed by flooding. A large tree fell and blocked Bosque Avenue, however. Fairfax's rainfall totaled 4.5 inches for 24 hours at 8 a.m.

In San Rafael, an earthslide buried a car parked at 5 Roberts Avenue. Irwin Street and Woodland Avenue were flooded in the industrial area.

The highway patrol reported 15 accidents yesterday and today, three causing injuries. Highway 101 remained open, however, with no flooding like last Friday's overflow at Greenbrae, the patrol said.

In Ross, Sir Francis Drake Boulevard was closed near city hall, rerouting commute traffic onto Laurel Grove Avenue. Wires were reported down on Wellington Avenue.

School was closed this morning in the Bolinas-Stinson School District, and slides were reported on Lagoon Road in Bolinas as well as on Shoreline Highway.

Lightning battered the Bolinas area, knocking out seven transformers between 11 p.m. and midnight in the Bolinas Road-Horseshoe Hill Road area, reported Leonard O. Robertson of Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

The electric outage led to the closing of Bolinas and Stinson Beach schools for lack of heat, and power was restored this morning. Lightning hit a power pole in the same area at 5:20 a.m., knocking out electricity again until 7:05 a.m. Slides reportedly closed Shoreline Highway this morning between Bolinas and Stinson Beach.

Other electrical outages were scattered over the county, PG&E reported. A car hit a pole on Center Road at 11 p.m., knocking out service to 550 customers. Most were in service again by 12:15 a.m. but 10 customers nearest the break had no electricity until 7:45 a.m., Robertson said.

Lightning also hit a transformer at San Quentin Village, knocking out power from 1:30 to 9 a.m., and another on Bungalow Avenue in San Rafael. A power pole near Lake Lagunitas was hit by lightning this morning.

A tree fell across a line in Mill Valley on Marion Avenue near Cascade Drive, knocking out power to 200 customers from 5:05 to 6:15 a.m. today. Seventy-five customers remained out until 8:50 a.m.

A small area in Fairfax was without electricity from 5 to 6:39 a.m., Robertson said, and there were several other small outages throughout the county from lightning, wind and rain.

BURNING

900-foot-high Bolinas Ridge prevented backyard burning pollutants in Stinson Beach from reaching the rest of the Bay area but the regional district's chief of meteorology, James S. Sandberg, testified that most of the pollutants would be carried into the central Bay Area via the Golden Gate.

White said that sparsely settled communities should be exempt from the ban. But Walker rebutted that the quality of air throughout the Bay Area already was below new standards set by the state air resources board.

He said "severely increased" standards would be needed soon in the Bay Area to meet the state requirements.

The regional district's Marin inspector, Samuel Chapman, testified that Henry Lacaze, who operates the refuse service in Stinson Beach, has not been asked to provide additional pickups, despite the fact the ban was voted 10 months ago.

Sherman R. Smith, secretary of the Bolinas Fire Protection District, asked that the exemption include garden clippings as well as residential trash. He said an acceptable alternative would be to allow continued burning at a community dump. He said a permit for burning at the dump had been secured through Supervisor William A. Gnoss, who represents Marin on the regional board.

Walker said that the district's staff had no knowledge of burning at a community dump, and added that no permit had been issued by the district for such burning.

Walker, arguing against any exemption under the ban, said "The only way you can eat an elephant is to eat a bite at a time."

He served in the Army as captain and was an instructor in guided missiles in 1958. For 10 years he was cost analyst and container manager for States Marine-Isthmian Agency Inc. He and his wife, Emily, with their three children, Debbie, 12; Arnold Jr., 10; and Marc, 6, live at 1095 Calle Paseo, Novato.

As president of the North Marin Federation, he has led the fight against mobile homes, especially the John E. Kenney proposed development of 1,800 mobile homes, south of Highway 37 and west of Black Point.

"I have been involved in issues that have concerned the future development of our entire North Marin area. Because of this interest, I have been urged by friends and persons in local government to become a candidate for the county board of supervisors," Baptiste said.

"As a supervisor, I will strive to make Novato truly the gateway to the Point Reyes National Seashore and to preserve a healthy, attractive environment for all of Marin County."

COURT

Court in New Orleans that the 14 school districts involved could postpone desegregation until next fall.

The districts are Jackson, Marshall county and Holly Springs, Miss.; Jefferson Birmingham county, Bessemer and Mobile county, Ala.; Burke, Bibb and Houston counties, Ga.; Bay and Alachua counties, Fla.; and West Feliciana, East Feliciana and Concordia parishes, La.

The court's usual unanimity in school desegregation cases broke, although none of the eight justices opposed in any way the court's holding that racially separate public schools are illegal.

Burger and Stewart, in a "memorandum," said they disagreed with the summary reversal of the circuit court, which, they said, "is far more familiar than we with the various situtions of these several school districts, some large, some small, some rural and some metropolitan."

Burger and Stewart said it seemed unsound to them to peremptorily reverse the lower court decision without a hearing before the high court.

Justices John Marshall Harlan and Byron R. White said they joined the reversal and declared that "graduated implementation" of desegregation "is no longer constitutionally permissible."

However, they said the "yardstick" should be that once a federal court finds school districts are not complying with the high court's general disapproval of freedom-of-choice attendance plans the officials should have a maximum of eight weeks to desegregate.

Justices Hugo L. Black, William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall took the strongest desegregation position. They went on record disagreeing with Harlan and White and said they believe Harlan and White's views were a "retreat" from the court's holding Oct. 29 in a Mississippi school case that "the obligation of every school district is to terminate dual school systems at once and operate now and hereafter only unitary schools."

Session Tonight

The Tiburon Peninsula DrugAbuse Committee, studying ways to improve community and school education on the dangers of narcotics, will beet at 8 p.m. today in the Del Mar School library, Dr. Charles J. Epstein, chairman, reported.

The Tamalpais Fire Protection District board also:

HIGH SPEED KILLS TWO

Two Winnemucca, Nev., 19-year-olds died in this head-on collision with a lumber truck near Redding. Thomas Joe Mackie and Terry Lee Sheppard were driving a Winnemucca Air Service car to Eureka Monday when they hit the truck, temporarily blocking the road with boards. The truck driver suffered only a scratched hand. (AP Wirephoto)

A Dozen Auto Crashes On Rainy Roads

Seven persons were injured—four in one accident—as rain-swept roads made driving hazardous in Marin yesterday. A total of 12 auto crashes were reported by the California Highway Patrol.

None of the injured was hurt seriously.

The four were hurt in a two-car accident on Shoreline Highway near the Fireside motel in Tamalpais Valley. The highway patrol said a car driven by Freddie M. Bonds Jr., 30, of Milpitas, collided at 7:15 p.m. with a vehicle operated by Shelley P. Adams, 15, of 36 Cove Road, Belvedere.

Both Bonds and Miss Adams and their respective passengers, Bob Calbert, 32, of San Jose, and Robert Johnson, 19, of the Cove Road address, were treated at Marin General Hospital.

In another crash last night, James O. Van Gunten, 25, of 120 Ricardo Road, Mill Valley, suffered a cut finger and sprained leg and ankle when his motorcycle struck a car driven by William C. Rogers Jr., 43, of 255 Canal Street, San Rafael, on Ricardo Road, the CHP said.

The highway patrol also reported that two motorists, Melanie A. Guthrie, 20, of 59 Santa Maria Drive, Novato, and Louis Palleschi, 64, of 5 Corte Comoda, Greenbrae, said they would see private physicians for assorted minor injuries, suffered when their cars collided at 5:45 p.m. on Highway 101 near the San Rafael viaduct.

Camera, Case Taken

Burglars took a camera and case valued at $125 Monday night from the Green Thumb Nursery, 301 Wilson Street, Petaluma, police reported. Entry was made by breaking window.

Judge Hears Troubles With Picket Lines

Independent-Journal employees yesterday testified in the courtroom of Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court that they had been jostled, threatened and harrassed by picketers last week during the International Typograpers Union strike.

Publishers of the I-J are asking that Judge Keating issue a temporary injunction against the union limiting number of pickets and ordering strikers to refrain from violence and from blocking entrance to the plant in San Rafael.

Last week Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court issued a temporary restraining order similar to the injunction asked.

Yesterday Barbara Hosmer, I-J women's editor, told how she and Cindy Miller, secretary to the co-publisher, had been jostled when they attempted to enter the building last Wednesday but had finally made it inside.

Don Stevens, an engraver, said that his jacket was torn and his finger injured when he was grabbed the same morning by pickets who were trying to prevent his entrance.

Jerry Schendel, advertising services manager, told how he had been followed in his car by a striker, how another had threatened him both on the phone and in person and how his car's tire had been punctured. After the tire episode Friday night, Schendel said that a picketer told him, "Next time it will be all four."

Pictures of attempts to block I-J delivery trucks from leaving the plant last Wednesday were shown by photographer Jim Kean, who also told of an attempt by strikers to chain shut the loading area.

Judge Keating recessed the hearing yesterday after an hour of testimony until Jan. 22, noting that the restraining order was still in effect.

San Francisco Local 21 of the ITU went on strike against the I-J last Wednesday but the paper has continued to publish.

Crash Fatal To Peace Corpsmen

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Three young American women Peace Corps volunteers were killed Tuesday when the car in which they were riding collided with a freight train at a level crossing near Eldoret.

News of the accident, which also took the life of an unidentified university student from Nairobi, reached Nairobi today.

The U.S. Embassy identified the three as Martha Merrill, Susan Davey and Marilyn McKay. All three were on holiday from Peace Corps assignments in Liberia, the embassy said.

Teen-Ager Hurt

Phillip Orella, 17, of 173 Ely Road, Petaluma, was reported in good contition at Petaluma General Hospital with a head cut suffered in a two-car accident at 7:45 p.m. yesterday at Liberty and Galland streets, Petaluma. Police lacked details of the accident.

Larkspur Nods To Lot Changes

The Larkspur Planning Commission last night unanimously approved combining three lots owned by T. W. O'Donoghue Jr. on the northeast corner of Magnolia Avenue and Bon Air Road into two parcels.

According to secretary Barbara Bruton, the new lots consist of 101,721 and 35,879 square feet and are zoned administrative-professional.

The commission also gave approval for the exterior of the Bayside Convalescent Hospital at 1225 South Eliseo Road being changed to grey, black and white, Mrs. Bruton said.

Lawyers Lose Repeat Gopher Hole Bowl Tilt

All parties agreed today that the county Department of Public Works won the Gopher Hole Bowl playoff against the Marin County Counsel's team by a score of 24 to 6 last Saturday at the San Rafael High School field.

The Gopher Hole Bowl is an annual New Year's Day contest between the two county departments. This year's bowl, played at Boyle Park in Mill Valley, found the county counsel's team beating public works 18 to 6.

However, in reporting the results, Captain Robert R. Middagh of the public works squad notified news media that his team had beaten the county counsel's team, captained by Thomas G. Hendricks. This created an uproar, resulting in Saturday's playoff.

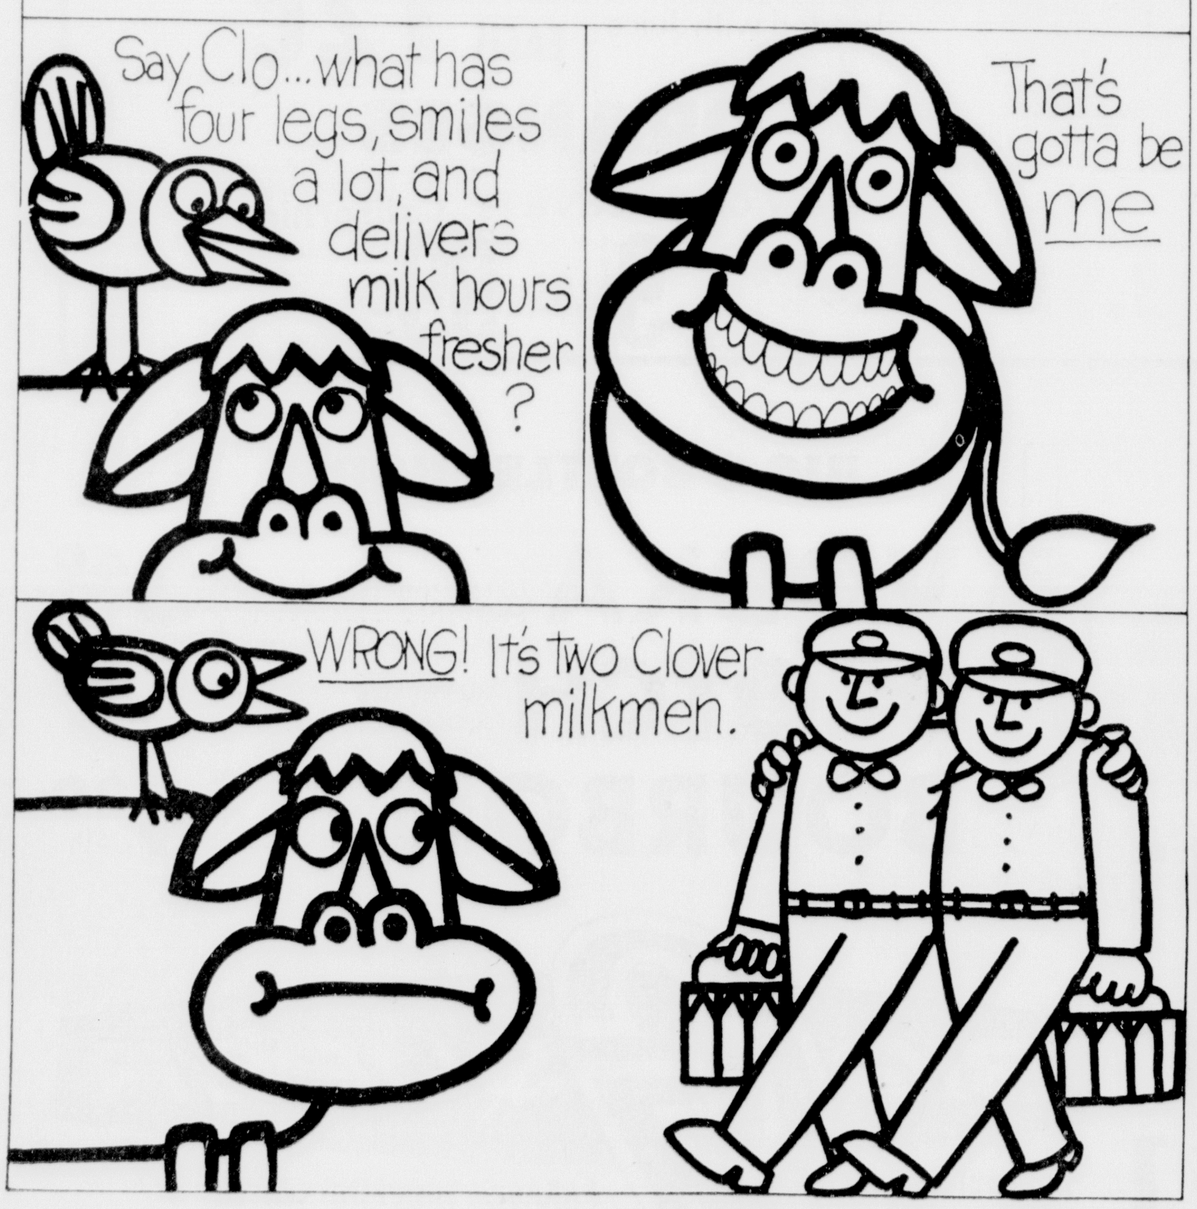

Hendricks acknowledged that Middagh's team won the playoff, but added: "We still won the real Gopher Hole Bowl played on Jan. 1. Besides, they had more injuries than we had."

American business firms spent nearly $2 billion in 1969 on pollution controls.

Teachers Critical Of I-J Coverage

The Independent-Journal is guilty of racist and slanted reporting of Sausalito school news, a Sausalito teachers group has declared.

The Sausalito District Teachers Association issued a resolution Jan. 5 declaring the I-J also "engaged in . . .subtle slander" of the district board by sensationally raising issues with "little substance or validity."

The resolution also said the I-J "morally and ethically violated" its right to the public trust by presenting "false images of the district to the public."

The I-J, according to the resolution, gives the district partial news coverage, focusing on issues with negative implications while ignoring the district's positive efforts and successes.

No specific instance was cited.

The association resolved that the I-J "must not utilize its power in behalf of any particular. . .group. . .in a manner which distorts the facts," and resolved that "the press represent all of the people."

The resolution was signed by association president James E. Pockrus.

Innocent Plea On Auto Theft, Burglary

Randall James Race, 18, of Novato, has pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court to charges of car theft and twice burglarizing MacPhee Plumbing in San Rafael. A jury trial was set for the week of Feb. 9 for Race, a former Chicagoan who served time in Marin County Jail last year after a burglary conviction.

He was arrested Dec. 26 outside the plumbing building, which had just been broken into. Officers said he was driving a rental car stolen from San Francisco International Airport.

Pair Pleads Innocent To Marijuana Charges

Jack Patten, 27, of San Francisco, and Michael Bruce Spencer, 18, of Sausalito, have pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing marijuana. A preliminary hearing was set Monday for Jan. 27.

The men were arrested Jan. 4 when they reportedly talked too loudly about hashish in front of an off-duty drug agent in a Sausalito cafe.

ABAG To Eye Marin Hopes For Grant

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — Marin County's application for a $283,250 federal grant to help buy 23 acres at McNear's Beach for a park will be reviewed by the Association of Bay Area Governments executive committee at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Hotel Claremont.

A grant in the same amount was approved by the federal government in 1968 to help the county buy about 100 acres at China Camp, but the county was unable to negotiate a sale with the property owner, Chin Ho of Hawaii.

The county's application under the Department of the Interior's land and water conservation fund asks that the grant be transferred to the McNear's Beach purchase. Total cost of the 23 acres has been figured by the county at $556,500.

Also on the agenda is a proposed five-year study, costing $3.5 million, of an automated information system for criminal justice agencies in the Bay Area. The proposal has been made by ABAG's criminal justice advisory board.

Four Marin Youths Enlist In Air Force

Four Marin County youths have enlisted in the Air Force and will receive basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex.

They are Julian Cordova, son of T/Sgt. and Mrs. David Garcia of 3 Barksdale Court, Hamilton Air Force Base; Ronald M. Gillespie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin V. Gillespie of 155 Cascade Drive, Fairfax; Robert E. Gisler, son of Emil K. Gisler of 257 San Carlos Avenue, Sausalito, and John W. Hoyt, son of William M. Hoyt of 241 Riviera Drive, San Rafael.

1970 Census Office Will Open On Monday

The San Rafael district office for the 1970 census will open Monday at 580 Irwin Street, Richard J. Mullikin, area supervisor for Northern California and Nevada, has announced.

The office will be in charge of collecting data from the Golden Gate Bridge to Hamilton Air Force Base and parts of Solano County, including Vallejo and its surrounding area, Mullikin said.

The area north of Hamilton Air Force Base will be under the jurisdiction of the Santa Rosa district office, Mullikin added.

Mrs. Charles Williams will be office supervisor in San Rafael, he said, and Joaquin De La Roza of San Francisco will be field supervisor. Barbara Hennessy of Fairfax is district manager.

Questionnaires will be mailed to all residents on March 28 and should be returned to the district office by April 1, Mullikin said.

About 300 persons will be hired by the local office to help work on the census and collect information not given on questionnaires or follow up when questionnaires are not returned, Mullikin said.

Persons should not apply for employment until the office announces it is ready to accept applications, Mullikin warned.

Procedures On Discipline To Be Reviewed

Proposed changes in the procedure for disciplining students charged with breaking college rules will be considered when the Marin Junior College District board meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Room 96, Olney Hall, at College of Marin.

Changes have been recommended by faculty and student groups after students challenged procedures used this semester when five students were charged with disrupting an Oct. 16 board meeting.

The board also is to hear a progress report on flood damage and flood control work on Corte Madera Creek; consider an addition to the procedures handbook on the district's responsibility for financial aid to students and execute an agreement to buy another parcel of land at the north campus site in Novato.

Courses For Parents On Drugs Danger

An eight-week course for parents on Society and Drugs is underway at San Rafael High School as part of the San Rafael schools' adult education program. Late registration will be accepted at the second session tomorrow from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in Room LA 104.

The course, taught by Ronald W. Shafer, will deal with the danger of drugs, how they work, how they are obtained, why they are used and legalization of marijuana.

Citizens Urge Tax Rate Hike Ballot

A Citizens Advisory Committee recommended last night that the San Rafael Board of Education call elections to raise the general purpose tax rate ceilings in both the elementary and high school districts.

With members Herman L. Childress and John C. Pfeiffer absent and copies of the committee's full report not yet received, the board withheld action on the recommendation until an adjourned meeting at 9 a.m. Saturday at the Administration Building, Third and E streets.

Donald R. Wellington, chairman of the budget-finance subcommittee of the Citizens Advisory Comittee, said the committee recommended boosting the rate ceilings "in line with staff estimates."

There were no firm rate ceiling hikes proposed, but Supt. John F. Plank felt that 35 cents in each district would be minimal.

He suggested board members consider a figure within 10 per cent of the estimated requirements: 49.1 cents in the elementary district and 36.7 cents in the high school district.

Business Mgr. Charles L. Condrotte estimated that expenditures in the elementary district would require a 17-cent tax rate hike in 1970-71 and a 32.1 cent boost in 1971-72.

In the high school district, he estimated the requirements would be a 20.7-cent hike in 1970-71 and a 16-cent boost in 1971-72.

The general purpose tax rate limits are now $2.25 per $100 of assessed valuation in the elementary district and $1.75 in the high school district.

(The total tax rate in the elementary district for 1969-70 is $3.275 per $100 assessed valuation and in the high school district, $2.295.)

Acting Board President Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. pointed out that raising the general purpose tax rate limits wouldn't necessarily mean the maximum rate would be levied immediately.

John E. Cascone of 9 Elkin Court, viewed calling a tax rate increase election as "a pretty expensive excercise in futility."

Wellington emphasized that by raising the rate ceilings in both districts the board would have flexibility in financing, should the school finance picture change in the next few years.

He explained that the committee report was completed "in rough draft form" but "unfortunately" copies weren't ready for the board last night.

Board Member Paul L. Jones said the board had to look at the committee's complete report before it acted. "How can we go for an election, if we don't know what we're going for?" he asked.

Wellington said the committee's recommendation was based on "Condrotte's figures."

"This isn't what I hoped this would be based on," replied Johnes. "I felt the need for an outside look."

Condrotte presented a revised projection of income and expenditures under current tax rates which indicated the elementary district would have a deficit of $181,232 in 1970-71 and $375,187 in 1971-72.

In the high school district, the projections showed a deficit of $317,209 in 1970-71 and $272,602 in 1971-72.

President Makes 11th Hour Cuts In Forthcoming Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has ordered further substantial last-minute cuts in his forthcoming budget-perhaps in an effort to avoid seeking major new taxes from Congress in 1970.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said today that Nixon informed his Cabinet at a three-hour session Tuesday that "substantial additional economies should be made" beyond what earlier had been regarded as the final budget levels for the 1971 fiscal year that begins July 1.

Ziegler acknowledged that the eleventh hour budget revisions could delay until early February presentation of the new federal spending blueprint.

Asked if the President ordered the new cuts in an effort to avoid seeking new tax revenues from Congress, Ziegler said that the budget could be balanced either by cutting spending or raising taxes—or some combination of the two. He said he could not speculate on which course Nixon would take.

However, he acknowledged that the budget, as it stood before Nixon's new order, already showed a surplus.

To some, that suggested the chief executive had decided that further reductions in federal outlays would be politically more palatable in an election year than requests for more taxes.

Administration sources estimate the budget message will call for a spending total of around $202 billion to $203 billion.

Ziegler said that the budget will give top priority to nurturing the health of the economy and to the ending of a continuing and steady cycle of rising prices.

Where Ziegler earlier had promised the budget would go to Congress during the week of January 25, today he would say only that it would be submitted within the statutory limit within 15 days following the reconvening of Congress on January 19. Reminded that this could push presentation of the bulky document into the first week of February he said, "There is a possibility."

When asked if Nixon might make an effort to cut the fiscal 1971 spending total below the current level, Ziegler said the President "is not going to be involved in gimmickry."

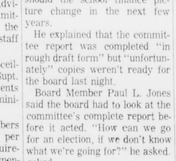

He would not say, however, if Nixon now plans a budget below $200 billion.

The press secretary also announced the timing of Nixon's January 22 presentation of the State of the Union message to Congress. He said the President's appearance would come at approximately 12:30 p.m. that day and certainly will be broadcast live by television and radio networks.

To help squeeze costs down and assure a surplus, one official reported privately, the budget message may call for cutbacks in some government services, possibly including operations of the Post Office.

Suspect Fights Tate Case Order

MCKINNEY, Tex. (UPI) — The attorney for Charles D. Watson, charged in the murders of actress Sharon Tate and six others, today filed suit to fight the suspect's extradition to California, ordered last week by Texas Gov. Preston Smith.

District Court Judge David Brown said he would hold a hearing on the latest legal maneuver Friday morning.

The motion for a writ of habeas corpus designed to test the validity of the extradition order was filed today by Bill Boyd, the former Collin County district attorney who is defending Watson, 24.

San Rafael Education Board Sets Discussions Of Brown's Criticism

Comment will be forthcoming from the San Rafael Board of Education on Board Member Carl J. Brown's attack last month on permissiveness in schools and "looseness in the moral tone of this nation."

Since his remarks, Brown has been supported by residents in letters to the board and to the Independent-Journal.

Brown suggested Dec. 9 "that we should start right in this room tonight to support those teachers and administrators who want to stop baby-sitting and get back to educating."

Board Member Paul L. Jones pointed out last night that Brown "had posed some questions," which warranted discussion.

Acting Chairman Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. said there would be discussion, but he felt it should come with the full board present, possibly at an adjourned session set for 9 a.m. Saturday at the Administration Building, Third and E Streets.

The San Rafael Board of Education also:

AUDIT REPORT — Accepted audits of the San Rafael Elementary and San Rafael High School districts for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1969 with comment from Theodore A. Martin of Sleezer and Eckhoff, certified public accountants that there was "no major criticism," but general reserves were down in both districts.

SABBATICAL REPORTS — Received reports of sabbatical leave activities from Milton Hain, counselor, San Rafael High School, who has instituted a course in study techniques, and Charles Perkins, district psychologist, who spent part of his leave as a family therapist at Marin County Juvenile Hall.

HIRING — Approved the hiring of Leonard Dickinson, custodian 1, high school district, at $6,515 a year, Dee Courcey Eckles and Edward Tait, substitute custodians, at $2.84 an hour, and Archie Patton, as adult education instructor, at $6.50 an hour.

RECREATION SESSION — Agreed to send board members to a joint study committee, including San Rafael City Council members, on city-school cooperation in the recreation program with the meeting tentatively set for 7:30 p.m. Feb. 3 at San Rafael City Hall.

MODEL U.N. — Received a request to allocate $150 toward sending 10 Terra Linda High School students to a Model United Nations session in Washington, D. C., and withheld action to see if fund raising events provide sufficient funds.

NEXT SESSION — Adjourned until 9 a.m. Saturday at the Administration Building, Third and E streets, to consider setting a tax rate increase election.

Retired Officers Seat New President

Army Brig. Gen. Patrick H. Devine of Larkspur has been installed as 1970 president of the Marin County Retired Officers Association. He succeeds Army Col. Fred C. Prebil of San Rafael.

Other new officers are Air Force Lt. Col. John D. Gore of Novato, first vice president; Navy Comdr. William S. Daubin of San Rafael, second vice president; Public Health Service Capt. Charles S. Gillooly of San Rafael, third vice president; Army Col. S. J. Baumgart of Woodacre, chaplain; Air Force Lt. Col. Frank A. Saunders of San Rafael, sergeant-at-arms; Army Col. Arthur A. Watson of San Rafael, secretary-treasurer, and Air Force CWO Harold H. Warriner of Terra Linda, assistant secretary-treasurer.

Abrams Praises Saigon's Troops

SAIGON (UPI) — Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. troops in South Vietnam, praised the South Vietnamese army today and said its soldiers had come out of their latest test with Communist forces "with tremendous confidence."

Abrams said the South Vietnamese army performed well in a six-week campaign late last year in the border province of Quang Duc northeast of Saigon in defending the Green Beret Special Forces camps of Bu Prang and Duc Lap.

He made the comments in an interview with UPI correspondent Barney Seibert at Ban Me Thout, 157 miles northeast of Saigon, where colorful ceremonies were held to mark the successful defense of the two border camps.

Arrigoni Sees No Foundation To Charges Of Creek Project Delay

There is absolutely no foundation to charges that the county department of public works is intentionally delaying work on the Corte Madera Creek flood control project, Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. declared yesterday at a meeting of the Marin County supervisors.

Arrigoni said he met with Public Works Director Donald R. Frost and his aides Monday to investigate accusations from Ross Valley that the county is willfully delaying eh work on Phase 3-A, from College Avenue in Kentfield to 700 feet below Lagunitas Road in Ross.

"I am perfectly satisfied in my own mind that everything humanly possible is being done to complete Phase 3-A," said Arrigoni. "I hope all the accusations will now be laid to rest."

Arrigoni also announced that the federal government is offering a national flood control insurance program, which will give residents in qualified areas federally-subsidized insurance. He asked that the county planning department bring in a status report on how the flood insurance will be available to the county.

Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows reported that the county planning department is trying to determine "flood plains" so that Marin can qualify under the national program.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

KAPPAS FILL — Continued until Jan. 27 an application by George Kappas to lay more fill on his yacht harbor at Waldo Point. Supervisor Michael Wornum asked Kappas' attorney, Hugh G. Lawrencen, to consider the possibility of removing illegal structures in the county grants additional fill.

TEACHERS INITIATIVE — Agreed to meet representatives of the County Supervisors Association of California and the California Teachers Association on Jan. 27 to hear arguments for a CTA initiative, which would greatly increase state participation in school financing.

PONY EXPRESS — Asked the parks and recreation department of make suggestions of what to do with the Pony Express Retreat, willed to the county by the late Waddell F. Smith.

PG&E RATE RAISE — Authorized Marin County Council Douglas J. Maloney to participate in opposing Pacific Gas and Electric Co.'s rate raise application before the state Public Utilities Commission. Marin's electrical bill would go up by $17,000 if the rate hike goes into effect, according to an estimate by the public works department.

The temperature of clean snow melting in the sun is always 0 degrees Centigrade or 32 degrees Fahrenheit.

Pesticide Expert Gets Promotion

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Eldridge G. Hunt, head of the state Fish and Game Department's pesticide investigations since 1957, was appointed today chief of the department's wildlife management branch.

G. Raymond Arnett, director of the department, described Hunt as a "pioneer in fulltime work on pesticide-wildlife relationships."

Cronkite Honored

BOSTON (UPI)—Newscaster Walter Cronkite was named Tuesday the 1970 recipient of the Bradford Washburn Award for his "superlative presentation" of the American space program.

A gold medal and a $5,000 honorarium will be presented to Cronkite in the spring.

Marin Sets Hearing On Eel River

The Eel River Water Council should hold up a decision on any proposal to dam the Eel River, until after a public hearing in Marin on Feb. 10, the Marin County Board of Supervisors declared yesterday.

On a motion by Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and a second by Michael Wornum, supervisors voted 4 to 0 to have a public hearing at 3 p.m. on Feb. 10 at the Civic Center, Chairman John F. McInnis was absent because he is on an Air Force tour.

Request for the public hearing came from Peter H. Behr, spokesman for Trouts Unlimited and the Committee of Two Million, a group of sports fishermen.

Behr and Joseph Paul of San Francisco, president of Trouts Unlimited, warned that on Feb. 26, the Eel River Council will take a stand on alternatives to the Dos Rios Dam Project, which would have dammed the Middle Fork of the Eel River to ship water to Southern California.

Gov. Ronald Reagan rejected the Dos Rios project and called for alternatives. "But the alternative dams being proposed would deliver down south twice as many acre feet of water as would have been delivered by the Dos Rios Dam," said Behr. "These are killer dams," warned Behr. He said the best steelhead and salmon runs in the country would be destroyed because fish cannot climb 600-foot dams.

Behr said the conservation groups and other citizens in the eight counties of the Eel River Council should have a chance to express themselves before the Council sets its policy.

The Eel River Council, headed by William R. Seeger, general manager of Marin Municipal Water District, represents Marin, Humboldt, Lake, Mendocino, Napa, Sonoma, Solano and Yolo counties.

Wanerman Hit For Contract Leak

Dr. Leon R. Wanerman, interim director of community mental health services, was sharply criticized yesterday for "inappropriate" action in notifying mental health center employees that a new contract with the county is "virtually completed."

Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella, who is representing the county in negotiating with the hospital district for a new contract, called Wanerman's letter "inappropriate." He said Wanerman will apologize to Ray K. Bolinger, administrator of Marin Hospital District.

Marin County supervisors have been trying to negotiate a new contract with the hospital district since last October when they fired Dr. Clyde G. Miller as county director of mental health services and hired Wanerman as interim director. Supervisors announced at the time that they wanted to take outpatient services from the hospital district and put them under county jurisdiction. This called for a new contract.

This contract is just about complete, Wanerman wrote in a letter last Thursday.

"All that remains to be done is the working out of one small item regarding Medi-Cal billing," wrote Wanerman. "However, the important substance of the agreement in which the administrative structure of services is described is completed and has been agreed upon by both county personnel and by the hospital district administrator, Mr. Bolinger, and the hospital district counsel. Mr. Bolinger has stated that he will recommend to the district board that they accept this new contractual agreement."

Both Campanella and Bolinger denied that agreement had been reached.

In fact, said Campanella, Bolinger and the hospital board have opposed the transfer of outpatient services to the county.

"Dr. Wanerman's letter was inappropriate, he should not have mailed it to the employees, and he is apologizing to Mr. Bolinger for the impropriety," said Campanella.

Wanerman acknowledged he received a memorandum from County Administrator Alan Bruce yesterday, saying that he (Bruce) is sending a letter of apology to Bolinger. Wanerman said he himself has not been asked to apologize to anyone. He explained he wrote the letter "because I had received requests for clarification" from some employees of the mental health center.

Wanerman said the contents of his letter are factual "as I best understand them to be, but it is conceivable that I am not understanding them correctly."

Just about the time that Wanerman was distributing his letter, reporting that the county takeover of outpatient services was "virtually completed," staff members of the community mental health center were issuing another letter urging that the county not take over the outpatient services.

A letter signed by 63 of the 81 staff members of the mental health center, declared in part, "We believe that a separation of services would promote increased distances among us and would, in the long run, have deleterious effects on the quality of services offered, and on staff morale."

Demo Senator Raps Reagan School Lunches As 'Sham'

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Reagan's proposed $20 million school lunch program for needy children was criticized by a Democratic senator today as based on "sham" and "falsehood."

The Republican governor told his news conference Tuesday he is sending an urgency measure to the legislature to provide up to $20 million in federal, state and local funds for school lunches through June 1971.

The state cost would be $6 million and the rest would be in federal and local matching funds. Reagan estimated the program would reach 400,000 hungry or malnourished children from families on welfare.

Reagan said the program was the result of a pilot project study conducted with $500,000 contained in a school lunch bill sponsored by Sen. George Moscone of San Francisco, the Senate Democratic leader, in 1969.

Moscone said that if Reagan contends the money went for a pilot study, "that's a blatant falsehood."

As passed by the legislature, Moscone's bill provided $5 million for the program. Reagan signed the bill but used his veto power to cut the appropriation from $5 million to $500,000. He said the bill was faulty because of "mechanical defects."

Moscone said, "He never would have thought of school lunch programs if the Democrats hadn't had one. There was not one word in the state of the state message about it."

Moscone has submitted a $3 million bill in this session to provide free school lunches to the poor during the rest of the fiscal year. A smiliar program was proposed by the seven Republicans and six Democrats on the Assembly Health and Welfare Committee Monday.

Earthquake Proofing May Cost $45 Million

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It will take $45 million to earthquake proof the 65 San Francisco schools built before 1933, engineers reported Tuesday to the Board of Education.

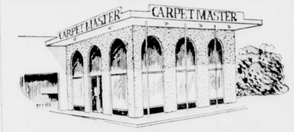

None of the 65 now complies with a new state law that requires schools be strong enough to withstand a quake of twice the intensity of the 1906 tremor in San Francisco, the report said. Schools built since then were required to meet these standards.

Business Infiltration Hard To Detect

(Third in a series)
By ROBERT M. SHAW

SACRAMENTO (AP)—For more than two decades, investigators have warned of the Mafia's infiltration of legitimate businesses. And detecting such infiltration still is the hardest job of California's Mafia-watchers.

Many businesses are so closely regulated that one would think it nigh impossible for a person with underworld connections to get started. For instance, the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Department can refuse to grant a license because of a person's criminal background.

But Mafia members aren't that open about their investments, says Albert W. Harris Jr., head of the attorney general's organized crime unit.

The Mafia entrepreneur finds somebody with a clean record but little money to "front" for him in the business. Harris said it all appears legal, but more often than not the profits aren't fully reported for tax purposes.

Harris said the vending machine business is one type of activity which is doubly suited for Mafia investment.

Not only can one find a "front" to go on the business license, but the coin-operated machines require no direct supervision and the counting of the money they bring in usually is done in the privacy of the machine owner's office.

Harris said that in Southern California "the big thing as far as money is concerned is book-making." He said the rising interest in professional football, baseball and basketball has caused gambling on those sports to outgrow gambling on horses, which is legal. More than half a billion dollars is bet legally each year at California race tracks.

Bookmaking fits in well with the internal structure of the Mafia, Harris said. When the police break up a bookmaking operation, they usually wind up with the little guys working on the street. The masterminds of the venture are insulated from prosecution because they're not directly and openly involved, he said.

Without getting involved directly, the state has managed to keep one large underworld investment in California from taking root.

About a year and a half ago a San Mateo businessman reported that a man from the Chicago area had approached him with an investment deal: each would put up half a million dollars to build a country club.

The organized crime unit looked into the background of the Chicago investor—Daniel F. Serafine. It learned that Serafine in 1964 had bought a bankrupt country club where a Chicago newspaper said a "summit meeting" of crime syndicate members from four states took place late in August 1966.

In September 1966 he and six others were indicted by a federal grand jury in Chicago on fraud and conspiracy charges in the alleged misapplication of $2.7 million in federally insured funds from two savings and loan associations.

When state investigators told the San Mateo man what they had turned up, he dropped out of the proposed deal and it fell through.

Last February Serafine pleaded no defense to the fraud and conspiracy charges and was fined $10,000 and given a six-month jail sentence.

Not all potential investments come to the attention of law enforcement officers so easily.

"Usually we can't tell where the Mafia is until there's trouble," said Capt. Clayton Anderson, head of the Los Angeles County district attorney's intelligence division.

And Harris said judicial rulings limiting the uses of evidence gained by wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping have made it harder to keep tabs on the Mafia.

Bugging and wiretapping have been about the best sources, Harris said, because of the Mafia's way of policing itself.

"Either somebody has to tell you what's going on—and they're not likely to—or you come in from the outside with a wiretap and find out," he said.

Law enforcement agencies trade confidential information on underworld figures through an informal organization known as the Law Enforcement Intelligence Unit.

Three years ago the LEIU dropped the San Diego Police Department for "lack of interest and nonpayment of dues." But a member of LEIU told the Associated Press that San Diego was dropped because of reported leaks of intelligence to the underworld. The source said no leaks could be proved, but he added, "We haven't trusted the San Diego Police Department for years."

Ecology Grant To Mill Valley

The National Science Foundation has granted the Mill Valley School District $20,658 for an ecology training program for 32 teachers.

The Cooperative College-School Science program, scheduled to start Aug. 24, will train teachers to use schoolyards as a field laboratory for teaching ecology, conservation and nature study.

The program is scheduled to open with a two-week summer session of lectures and field work at the Richardson Bay Wildlife Sanctuary and Education Center.

Educators Need Too Much Educating?

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Initial "brainstorming" sessions involving Kentucky state officials and college professors and administrators were not as immediately beneficial to state government as was hoped.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn's staff planned the weekend retreats at isolated state parks to gain fresh ideas. But participants complained that too much time had to be spent informing the educators about state government and its programs.

$250 Fine On Burglary Count

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court has placed Michael Forbes McCormick, 29, of Gate 5, on two years' probation and fined him $250 for burglarizing a Mill Valley residence last June. He also gave McCormick a suspended 90-day jail sentence.

McCormick had earlier admitted the burglary at 177 Hazel Avenue. He and Vern Robert Solomon, 34, of San Francisco, were arrested as they were loading their car with articles allegedly stolen from the house.

A bench warrant was issued for Solomon last July when he failed to appear in court.

A Timely Discussion On Flood Procedures

The San Anselmo City Council engaged in a timely discussion of emergency flood procedures last night as lightning flashed, heavy rains beat down and lights went out in city hall.

The council accepted a report from City Administrator Alfred C. Kaeppel on what actions should be taken in the event of flooding (or other disaster) and made only a few changes in the plan.

Although the report contended that a city-wide alarm activated when flooding is threatened might result in a profusion of calls to police and fire departments, and clog the switch boards, the council held out for such an alarm.

On a suggestion from Councilman James F. Reed, the council agreed the city's emergency alert should consist of five long blasts of the city fire horn, four times in a row. "I think people in the low-lying areas must be alerted as quickly as possible," Reed said, adding the administrator's plan for telephone warning system could be used as a supplementary measure.

Reed said he would like to see the city study the possibility of a more elaborate disaster warning system. "As long as we are using the horn, I feel we have to keep the public aware of what the emergency signal is," he continued. "I don't think we can establish this signal now and expect people to remember what it is if we don't have another flood for 14 years."

Also proposed in the report were water actuated signals on the Ongaro building in downtown San Anselmo and at Fire Station No. 2 to activate the warning signal.

Other procedures discussed included storing of sand and sand bags, barricading of flooded streets and notification of city personnel who will be needed in the event of flooding.

The San Anselmo City Council Also:

HOUSING—Listened to a report from Donald O. Stutsman, executive director of the Marin County Housing Authority, urging the city to support the proposed ballot measure to provide additional public housing for low-income families, but took no action.

BURN BAN—On a suggestion from Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson, voted to direct city employees to aid in enforcement of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District's backyard burning ban, at least until the district perfects enforcement procedures.

PARKING—Postponed to Jan. 27 discussion of off-street parking and non-conforming uses.

PALMENTS—Agreed to make $13,319 in payments to W. K. McClellan Co. of San Rafael for drainage systems on Melville and Austin avenues and for surfacing of Woodland and Angela avenues and the Alameda.

Hub authorized partial payment of $4,721 to Ghilotti Bros. Inc. of San Rafael for installation of signals at the Hub.

ORDINANCE—Postponed until Jan. 27 second reading of an ordinance which would include chimneys in city regulations on architectural features.

CONFERENCE—Agreed to allow Frank Quinn, city parks and recreation director, to attend the California Pacific Southwest Park Conference and Recreation Clinic in Anaheim in February.

DEBRIS BOXES—Authorized Quinn to maintain debris boxes, at a cost of $40 per month, in Robson-Harrington Park for the remainder of the current fiscal year.

ELECTIONS—Asked the county to provide election services for the April 14 municipal elections.

SPACE — Referred a study of future space requirements of city departments to a committee consisting of the police and fire chiefs, Councilmen Reed and Woodrow V. Capurro for further study.

REZONING — Approved rezoning of two lots (owned by Ronald Harder) at 54 and 56 Magnolia Avenue from a single family to multiple apartment district designation.

SIDEWALKS — Ordered city public works department to proceed on construction of sidewalks on portions of Red Hill Avenue and Park and Sequoia drives, after no property owner appeared to protest the improvements.

RESTORATION—Heard from Charles R. Leitzell, public works director, that restoration is progressing on two houses at 562 and 564 Scenic Avenue. The council had held off on demolishing the structures after a youthful trio, John Simontacchi, Mark Jordan and John Rambke, pleaded for time to bring the buildings up to city codes.

VARIANCE — Urged Frank Gneri to apply for a sideyard setback variance to allow him to construct a carport on his property at 2 Raymond Avenue. The planning commission denied Gneri's plans for location of the carport at its last meeting.

DRAINAGE PROBLEM—Asked Hans W. Schneider, 35, Brookside Drive, to meet with the city engineer to discuss installing a storm drain on his property. Schneider has agreed to dedicate an easement for the drain.

CREEK CLEANING — Appropriated $1,000 for cleaning of San Anselmo Creek.

FLOOD INSURANCE—Agreed not to apply for federal flood insurance until Marin County and other cities take some action. Kaeppel said he felt the insurance could be useful "for large areas, but not for small pinpoints of flooding."

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel accused France today of trying to cover up its arms deal with Libya and said the French have joined the Russians in upsetting the power balance in the Middle East.

Marin Magazine

We put a lot in the I-J so you'll get a lot out

The daily newspaper has been called a miracle of production. But it is really far more than that. It is a view of your immediate world and a window on events of national and international importance.

As a journal of the human race and all its activities, the newspaper makes you a member of the informed, advances your rights and responsibilities as a citizen, protects your "right to know" . . . and contributes daily to your understanding of the meaning of events. It informs, instructs, amuses, it asks questions . . . above all, it communicates the strange, fascinating, changing world of today.

To do this, we print each day enough words to fill a full-sized novel or textbook. But with that special characteristic of the news—the now, the here, the present. We tell you of new discoveries in physical science, medicine, outer space . . . inform you on psychology, politics, art, education, geography and economics. We show you merchandise, values and prices . . . tell you what the weather's doing, what the theaters are playing, what happened in sports, who was born, who was married, who died.

All this, and more . . . set down in the common language of understanding. Few books offer you such variety. And none offers such immediate knowledge of the world today. Your newspaper . . . with which you hold the world in your hands and get a new perspective on events—and on yourself.

San Rafael Planning Dean, Pat Hetherton, Leaving City

Hetherton informed fellow commissioners he is moving from San Rafael to the Tamalpais, retirement home in Greenbrae.

"I regret losing the opportunity to meet with you people after almost 16 years," Hetherton told commissioners.

Hetherton was appointed to the commission in 1954 and served as chairman until 1964.

After spending 30 years in the field of regional resources planning, Hetherton moved to San Rafael in 1953. He had worked in planning with the U.S. Department of the Interior, and from 1934 to 1945 was a member of the Washington State Planning Council.

Born in Scotland, he moved to this country at the age of 17. He was graduated from the University of Minnesota with a degree in mechanical engineering and worked as a civil engineer in North and South Dakota and for Anaconda Copper Co. in Great Falls, Mont. He was a consultant for the National Resources Board during the 1920s and 1930s.

Senior commissioner quits

He was a director of the Marin Conservation League until retiring two years ago and chairman for the technical advisory committee on regional planning for the Association of Bay Area Governments.

The commission unanimously approved a recommendation of Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner that a letter be drafted expressing the commission's gratitude for Hetherton's service and Commissioner Lawrence E. Mulryan moved adjournment of the meeting in tribute to Hetherton.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

SUBDIVISION — Continued hearing on 10-lot Point San Quentin Industrial Subdivision on Francisco Boulevard near Marin Rod and Gun Club until Feb. 10 so road alignments can be studied by the staff and Bay Area Conservation Development Commission.

Scarcity, Low Crab Price Worry Area's Fishermen

A San Francisco restaurateur has proposed a moratorium on crab fishing in this area until the supply returns to former levels, but economics amy be creating its own "moratorium."

Lucien A. Sabella of Sabella's Restaurant on Fisherman's Wharf (Acousin of Luciano A. Sabella of Sabella's of Marin) proposed the moratorium yesterday.

He said the Bay Area crab catch has dwindled from 8,800,00 pounds in 1956;57 to 350,00 pounds in 1967-68

Acheck with commercial fishing companies in Marin showed, however, that most are not fishing crabs because the catch is not sufficient to make it worthwhile at present prices.

When the season opened in the Bay Area, the catch was comparatively good, reported Ocean Traders and J. S. Sturiale Fish Co., both of Sausalito. But when the season opened a few weeks later in Eureka waters, the price dropped from 40 cents to 25 cents a pound. Aby Area fisherman then quit putting out their crab traps as the catch was insufficient to be profitable at that price. Crab now on the market here is nearly all from Eureka, although the Sturiale Company reported one boat brought ina catch yesterday.

Ocean Traders reported this year's early catch was better than in other recent years, as did Frank Alioto Fish Co. of Inverness.

Escape Charge Case To Superior Court

Paul Kenneth McSweeney, 22, of Mill Valley, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of escaping from a bailiff at the old Marin County Court House in San Rafal on Nov. 25 when he was being led from a courtroom back to jail.

He is to appeaar in court Monday for arraignment.

Novato Council Meets Tonight

Because of a lack of a quorum, the Novato City Council did not hold its regular meeting last night, but will hold it at 8 today, according to City Mgr. Charles A. Brown.

All items on the agenda will be taken up at tonight's meeting, he said.

Mayor Harley A. McAskill and Councilmen J. Wayne Womack and Babe Silva did not return from an Air Force tour in time for the meeting, Brown said.

Challenger To Rafferty Likely

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state's top black educator confirmed today he might challenge Max Rafferty for election as state superintendent of public instruction.

Wilson C. Riles, one of three deputies under Rafferty, said reports he was giving serious consideration to the race are accurate, "but I'm not prepared to comment further at the present time."

The 52-year-old Democrat acknowledged that he had been approached by potential supporters and said, "my mind will have to be made up by Feb. 1," at which time he said he would have an announcement.

Dixie Board Eyes Need Of Tax Rate Election

Dixie School District will need an additional $500,000 in 1970-71 if it is to maintain its present level of education, the district superintendent told the district board last night. And the money may have to come from increased taxes.

Supt. Clifford R. Campbell urged the board to call for a tax rate increase election in April and said an additional tax of 50 cents per $100 assessed valuation is needed.

Also, Campbell told the board it may have to add a 50-cent boast to override taxes, those levied without going to the voters, if the district is to meet the deficit. The superintendent's recommendations were seconded by the Citizens Advisory Committee on District Finance.

Campbell told the board the district will need a $4 million budget for operational costs next year, same as this year, and said inflation and the downward spiral of state support made the tax hike necessary.

Dixie's tax rate is currently $3.995, the highest in the county. The suggested increase would bring the rate, including override, to $4.995.

Campbell emphasized the rise might not be that high, even though voters approve the 50-cent general tax increase. "I feel the state will come through and give us more money," he said, while admitting the district will not know about state funds until August.

As for construction costs, the advisory group urged the board to call for a special election to enable the district to raise its interest rates on $1,490,000 of bonds already approved for construction from 5 to 7 per cent. Campbell explained the district has been unable to sell the bonds, intended for classroom construction at Oakview and Miller Creek schools, at the present rate, since other school bonds are selling at interest rates between 6.5 and 7 per cent.

The board will hold a special meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the district administration office, 35 Trellis Way, San Rafael, to decide whether to call for the elections.

Author To Speak

Zilfa Snyder, author of a children's book entitled "The Egypt Game," will speak to the fourth, fifth and sixth grade reading students of teacher Norma Schlager at Laurel Dell Intermediate School, San Rafael, at 10 a.m. Friday.

Town-College Debate On Dollars, Discipline

"There's been a lot of baiting going on, but not much communication," a co-ed declared near the end of last night's four-part college-community conference at College of Marin.

Baiting there was, in verbal clashes of students and citizens, but most of the 60 who attended appeared to think there had been communication, too.

In a group discussing innovative instruction programs, Associate Dean Albert Heppe told how budget pinches had cut the college district from $10,000 a year to a zero budget for innovation. Innovative programs were started in recent years, he said, in marine technology, nuruing, physical education, dental assisting, open physics laboratories, and geology and astronomy projects.

He may even have won some support for budgeting innovative programs again.

The student-community arguments came in discussions of student financial aid and discipline programs, with both sides arguing with some heat but no apparent rancor.

The tenor of questioning about financial aid indicated one line of community thought about the $292,000 program.

"What's the average age of students seeking aid?" "What is the racial breakdown of students receiving aid?" "What about residence?" "What percentage of local high school graduates seek aid?" "Are there any starving students?"

The answers, as given by Dean of Students Irwin P. Diamond and financial aids director Charles Herndon, were that aid-seeking students average between 21 and 22 years, like the rest of the student body; white students are getting $188,000 in aid, black students $55,000, chicanos $9,282 and Orientals $8,200; of 240 students getting aid, 70 have lived in Marin less than a year; and about 35 per cent of local graduates seek aid in some form. As for starving students, a co-ed said she knew one student living in a camper who didn't even have a meal ticket until one was given him a few days ago.

Herndon startled the audience by saying he was against the entire aid program despite its benefits, "because it's a welfare program." It is providing food, shelter and clothing for poor people, he said, and the schools don't have the staff or resources for the job. He said aid should be the government's role, letting the school concentrate on education.

In the discussion on discipline, students wrangled with Kent Seymour and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Reed over the college's image, and the student's and public's obligations.

If the image isn't changed, Seymour warned, the public won't contribute to the school. A small group of dissidents is responsible and more discipline for them is needed, he said.

"What do we do with them?" asked William Acosta.

"Shape up or ship out," said Mrs. Reed. The college is a place to train students to live in the community, she said, and the community is "averse to things that insult their intelligence."

College trustee Donald K. Felt sided with students in rejecting the idea that the college must "reflect the values of a typical member of the community." The concept is so unacceptable to other elements it couldn't be made to stick, he said. But the community should insist that the college maintain a certain discipline, he continued.

"Don't any of you feel the image needs changing?" Seymour asked.

"Yes," Acosta said. "We need more self-determination for students."

Acosta said a handful of people is helping the college in the community's name, but said most property owners pay their taxes only because they would lose their homes if they didn't. If they had a choice, "99 per cent wouldn't pay," he predicted. "The community doesn't give a darn about what's happening."

"Mr. Seymour's point," Felt said, "is that a lot of students don't give a darn either . . . a lot of static from the student body is directed at the community—it does nothing to help do anything but feed the ego."

The college and the community are in the midst of change, Reed said, and that will continue. Except for one case, there has been no difficulty in the community, he said, but "there's a lot of paranoia in this community, as there is in this country."

The public image of the college is a false one, said Louis H. Herkenhoff, assistant to the president.

He conceded that the community may never accept student costumes, hair, and vocabulary, but he added that aat College of Marin "the educational process has not been disturbed—classes have not been interrupted."

Acosta, who with four other students was disciplined for disrupting an Oct. 16 college board meeting, told the group that two of the disciplined students were later evicted from apartments "for their so-called communist tendencies," and have dropped out of school, while the other two "aren't making it" in class because of being "hassled" about the case.

Lothar Salin, moderator of the discipline discussion, had harsh words for college critics who did not attend the meeting, naming the Marin Property Owners and real estate men. "They say we have to stop student misbehavior," he said. "Where the hell are they? . . . They've forfeited their right to complain . . . I'm not inclined to pay any attention to them."

Herkenhoff said the college will have student or faculty speakers on call if any groups want to discuss the college.

A student suggested that people "quiet your mind and leave your opinions at home" at future meetings.

It wasn't clear if anyone believed him.

Moderators and recorders in the four sessions will meet Tuesday to discuss the group's findings and decide whether to call further community meetings, Herkenhoff said.

The meeting was the third in a series to improve college-community relations. Students also are planning a college fair next spring for the same purpose.

Classroom Controversy Guide Voted

A position paper on handling controversial issues in the classroom was accepted with little comment and adopted as schools policy last night by the Petaluma Board of Education.

School Supt. Lesly H. Meyer said the four-page document was developed at meetings of teacher committees which began in the spring of 1968 and had gone through scores of word-by-word changes.

The policy encourages teachers to involve controversial issues where they apply in the classroom and to take a problem-solving, enquiring approach to them. Excluded was any indocrination in religious, sectarian or partisan beliefs by the teacher.

Teachers were instructed to involve their principal and department head when controversial subjects were discussed that might bring concern from the public.

The document prohibits individuals or groups from presenting arguments in schools, but said the teacher may invite authorities to discuss the issue in question.

Complaints by the public on any controversy must be received in writing, according to the paper, and an instructional issues committee established to hear complaints.

Meyer said the teachers would now have more responsibility in dealing with controversial issues and said he felt it would loosen the reluctance of some to get into touchy areas.

The Petaluma Board of Education also:

BUDGET — Heard a midyear budget review that indicated expenditures will be less than the budgeted amount and income for the districts will be $390,000 higher than the original estimate.

EMPLOYED — Hired Joann Poindexter as a high school teacher at a salary of $5,504 and Mary Buck as a part time nurse at $1,480.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted resignations from elementary teachers Virginia Cline, who will retire, and Richard Drumm for personal and professional reasons.

OVERCROSSING — Approved a resolution calling for the state Division of Highways to schedule work to widen the overcrossing at Highway 101 and East Washington Street before the planned 1975 date.

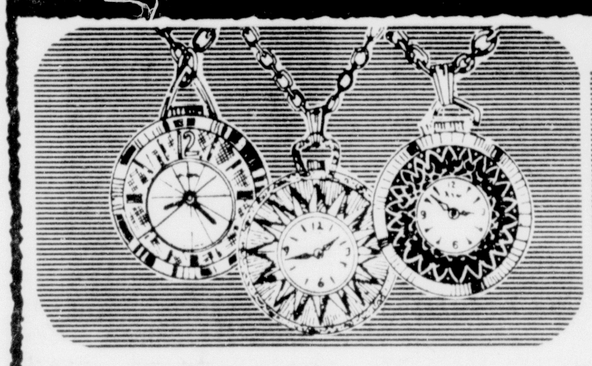

New Conflict Of Interest Bill Set

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan and the legislature's two leading Republicans today proposed what they called the nation's toughest conflict-of-interest law governing politicians and public employes.

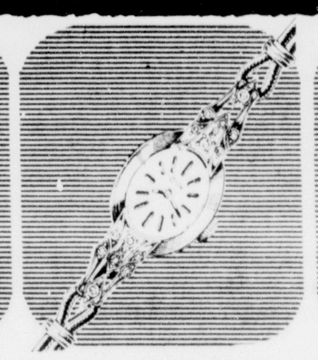

Senate President Pro Tem Howard Way said the measure if enacted would be "a victory for new politics." He and Assembly Speaker Robert Monagan outlined details at their weekly news conference.

The bill would affect all elected officials and civil service employes, from governor down to janitor, at both the state and local level.

WINGS OVER THE WAVES

A half century has passed since the first non-stop crossing of the Atlantic. It was made in June, 1919, by Capt. John Alcock, D.S.C., and Lieut. Arthur Whitten Brown, pioneer English aviators. These 50 years have seen the accomplishment of feats which would not have been imaginable in 1919. But this early adventure required the same courage and technical skills available at the time —and excited the same public interest and delight—as today's lunar epics.

World War I had accelerated the expansion of aviation, and after the war pilots turned their experience of flying to setting and breaking records. In May, 1919, a U.S. Navy NC-4 flying boat, with a six-man crew headed by Lt. Cmdr. Albert C. Read, made the first Atlantic crossing; the flight was from Rockaway, N.Y., via Newfoundland, the Azores and Lisbon, Portugal, to Plymouth, England a distance of 4,526 miles, from May 8-31.

Then, in June the same year, Alcock and Brown made the first non-stop Atlantic crossing in a Vickers Vimy. They left St. John's, Newfoundland, on June 14 and landed at Clifden, Ireland on June 15, having covered 1,880 miles in some 16 hours. Capt. Alcock piloted and Lieut. Brown navigated.

The Vickers Vimy was a frail biplane powered by two "Eagle" Rolls Royce engines. The aviators had to fly through frozen sleet and dense fog without the luxuries of modern de-icing or radar equipment. In fact, shortly after take-off, a technical defect put their radio out of action. At that time little was known of weather conditions in mid-Atlantic; they were forced at times to fly only 300 feet above the ocean.

Arthur Whitten Brown had been born in Glasgow of American parents. Both he and Alcock had worked at aircraft factories in Manchester, England, and had flown on active service during World War I. For their success in crossing the Atlantic they were knighted by King George V. And they won a prize of £10,000 (worth $50,000 at the time) which had been offered by the London Daily Mail. Sir John Alcock died in a plane crash in December, 1919; Sir Arthur Brown lived until 1948.

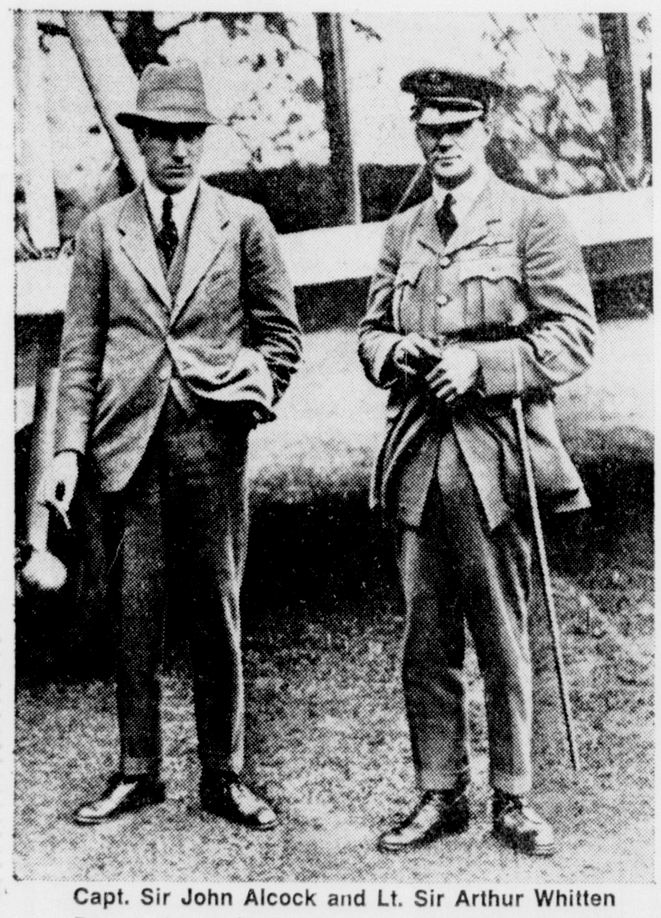

Finally, in 1927, Charles A. Lindbergh made the first, non-stop, solo transatlantic flight. He flew his Ryan monoplane, Spirit of St. Louis, the 3,600 miles from New York to Paris in 33½ hours.

"They'll try the moon next," said the comedians.

Hard-Edge Canvases' Impact Hurt By Craftsmanship Lack

By LAURA DEVENDORF

"If a thing is worth doing it's worth doing well."

That saw rarely applies more pointedly than to Bart Perry's paintings displayed this month at the Mill Valley Library gallery. In a series of hard-edge canvases which rely on rigidly certain shapes and lines, it is clear how the whole intent of a work, its entire impact and importance, can be destroyed by craftsmanship which doesn't measure up to the selected style.

Perry torpedoes himself with messy, unsure and unfinished edges, paint that bunches or doesn't cover, and staples showing and buckling in his shaped canvases. All this diminishes the believability of what he does. And that part of his work which is well done must fight for acceptance against the rest in which he is unable to control his medium and technique.

It's really too bad. The finished half of Perrys' show is very much worth seeing, particularly his "Square" series Most of these deal with groups of lines tilting like falling pick-up sticks with in sharp forms which in turn move through flat colored space.

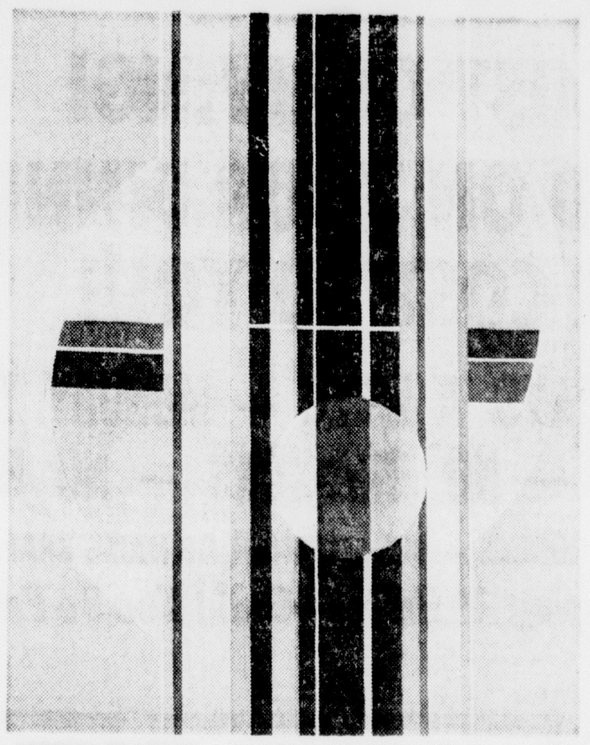

In these, Perry's color is strong and purposeful, often dwelling on harsh reds in combination with pastels. A pleasant exception is "Dark-Light Square" in which occasionally grainy dark blues, greens and browns are faded to near white within crisply defined areas.

A sophisticated variation of the "Squares" is "Cityscape," in which the bright stripings are revealed through oval cutouts in the foreground of hard red. The exhibit could use more of these which combine stiff line with curves carving through space.

It isn't that there aren't some nice ideas already there to work with. With some cleaning up Perry's "Yellow Shaped Canvas," "High Frequency" and a few others could still make it. It's just too bad that someone with Perry's background should blow much of his effect by including work which looks so insecure.

Voting To Start Tomorrow For New Officers

Candidates for spring semester student officers at College of Marin were confirmed yesterday by the Associated Students Executive Council, but flooding at the campus threatened to wash out today's scheduled election speeches.

Officers are to be chosen in voting tomorrow and Friday. December election was voided by the council on reports of voting irregularities.

No candidate filed for vice president, and only one candidate filed for each of five other posts.

The other candidates are Elaine Strahlendorf for secretary, Claudette Sherbert for treasurer, Dennis Carpenter for rallies and assemblies commissioner, Richard Kirby for public relations commissioner, and Diane Andrews for song leader.

Travelogue Slated

"Portraits of Scandinavia," a color travelogue on the scenery, cultural, economic and sociological aspects of Scandinavia, will be narrated by its producer, William Moore, at 8:15 p.m. Friday in the College of Marin Fine Arts Theater in the college's concert-lecture series. Admission is free.

Second Volume Of Literary Magazine Is Out

The second volume of "On the Other Hand . . . ," a district wide literary magazine from Tamalpais High School District, was published this week, with stories, essays, poems, photographs and drawings by district students.

The magazine, which succeeds the newspaper High Times, was edited by English 5J classes at Tamalpais High School. A March issue will be edited at Sir Francis Drake High School and a June issue at Redwood High School.

College's Orchestra Seeks More Players

The College of Marin community orchestra is now accepting new musicians, conductor John H. Myers has announced. There are openings in violin, viola, horn and oboe, and in most other sections, Myers said. The orchestra rehearses at 8 p.m. Mondays in Room 75 of the Fine Arts Building.

The orchestra has two concerts remaining this season, in March and June.

Bach-To-Mozart Group To Perform Twice On Sunday

The Bach-to-Mozart group will present the second program in its 10th annual three-concert series and the second in its children's series Sunday at Brown's Hall in Mill Valley.

The juniors' concert will be performed by a portion of the group at 2:30 p.m. and the evening candlelight concert by the full group at 8:15 p.m.

Musicians are soprano Gwen Curatilo, baritone Edgar Jones, oboist Raymond Duste, trumpeters Edward Haug and Charles Bubb, violinists George Nagata and Donna Salarpi, violist Asbjorn Finess, cellist Ellen Dessler and harpsichordist Donald Pippin.

The program for the evening concert will be "The Village Musicians" (a musical joke) K. 522 and aria "Voi Auete un cor Fedele" K. 217, Mozart; Sonata in A Major for Violins and Harpsichord and Aria from Cantata No. 208, J. S. Bach; selected Blake songs, Ralph Vaughan Williams and Symphonia Sacra "Singet dem Herrn," Heinrich Schuetz.

For the afternoon children's concert, works by Mozart, Telemann, Rossi, Quant and anonymous troubadours will be performed with commentary by Duste on instruments and music.

Ticket information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Martin Goldschmidt of Mill Valley or Ursula Davidson of San Rafael.

College Prepares Winter Concert

The winter concert of the College of Marin community chorus and collegiate chorale will be presented at 8 p.m. Sunday at the Fine Arts Theater. Admission is free.

The program consists of the Great Mass in F Minor, by Bruckner, and the Stabat Mater of Rossini. S. Drummond Wolff will direct.

The choirs will be accompanied by professional soloists, and by a professional orchestra provided by the American Federation of Musicians and a grant from the Recording Industries Trust Fund.

Soloists will be Meg Broughton, soprano; Donna Petersen, contralto; Paul Raabe, tenor, and Eugene Bartlett, bass. Organist will be Alden Gilchrist.

Cornmeal Indian Pudding Special

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press

Indian Pudding is one of our Early American recipes. It was sometimes made without spice — unlike the recipes for this pudding that evolved in later years. If omitting spice appeals to you, here's a recipe you'll treasure. It's bland, uncomplicated and homey. Dark molasses — and only dark should be used — gives special flavor.

But this recipe incorporates one modern change. Traditional Indian Pudding usually wheyed. In this recipe, the pudding is baked in a hot-water bath and there's no wheying; instead a soft, homogenous texture prevails.

We always offer servings of Indian Pudding with large scoops of vanila ice cream atop them, and we advise you to do the same.

INDIAN PUDDING

4 cups milk
⅓ cup enriched yellow cornmeal
¼ teaspoon salt
1 large egg
⅛ pound (½ stick) butter
⅓ cup dark molasses
¼ cup sugar

In a large saucepan heat 3 cups of the milk until bubbles appear around the edge; remove from heat.

In a small bowl stir together the cornmeal, salt and remaining 1 cup milk. Pour into scalding-hot milk, stirring constantly.

Over moderate heat bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Reduce heat to low and, stirring occasionally, cook until thickened — about 5 minutes; remove from heat.

In a small bowl beat egg enough to blend yolk and white; vigorously stir a little of the hot cornmeal mixture into the egg; stir egg mixture back into cornmeal mixture. Add butter, molasses and sugar; stir until butter melts.

Pour into a buttered 1½-quart round glass casserole (7½ by 2½ inches) or similar utensil. Set casserole in a baking pan; pour hot water into baking pan to within 1 inch from top.

Bake uncovered in preheated 275-degree oven for about 3 hours; top will be a rich caramel color. Cool to lukewarm — this will take an hour or two. Serve at once, topping with vanilla ice cream. Pudding may also be served chilled — it will remain soft in texture and will not whey.

Makes 6 servings.

A SPECIAL OCCASION calls for a special dinner. This kabob dish is served with rice pilaf and accompanied by tomatoes and parsley garnish. Carrots are a colorful accompanying vegetable.

Shrimps, Beef Cubes In Kabob-Pilaf Meal

Are you planning a dinner for a special someone? Perhaps you're celebrating your engagement and can't resist demonstrating your culinary prowess to your fiance. Or, it may be your first wedding anniversary and you want to surprise your husband with an elegant candlelight dinner for two. Whatever the occasion, you will want your dinner to be elegant and festive, but not requiring tedious hours of preparation.

This Pilaf 'n Kabob Special is sure to please. The kabobs boast tender cubes of beef tenderloin, large shrimps, fresh mushrooms and pinapple chunks. At serving time, nestle the two kabobs on a bed of fluffy rice pilaf.

Chopped macadamia nuts, added to the rice pilaf at serving time, give the rice a nutty flavor. Orange carrot nuggets in butter sauce are a bright accompaniment.

PILAF 'N KABOB SPECIAL

1/3 pound beef tenderloin or sirloin, cut into 1-inch cubes
4 large cooked shrimps, peeled and deveined
Pineapple chunks
Fresh mushrooms
2 tablespoons chopped macadamia nuts

Slip pouch of rice into boiling water. Bring water to a second boil; continue cooking 16 minutes. Do not cover pan.

Alternate pieces of meat, shrimp, pineapple, and mushrooms on skewers. Broil to desired doneness, turning occasionally.

Honey

More than half the honey produced in the United States is light-colored, mild-flavored sweet clover, clover or alfalfa honey. Probably the darkest table honey produced is buckwheat honey.

Quiz Yourself On Meat To Be An Alert Shopper

Here is a short quiz from the United States Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service that will help you to be a more alert shopper.

1. Does it matter if you don't take fresh or frozen meat (or poultry) home right after you've finished your grocery shopping?

2. Are the words in the name of a product important?

3. What does "Water Added" on a ham label mean?

4. Is it safe to refreeze poultry that has been frozen and thawed?

5. How can you tell if the frankfurters you buy contain poultry meat?

6. What laws help protect us from buying unfit meat and poultry?

7. What does the USDA Choice mark on fresh beef mean?

ANSWERS: 1. Yes. Fresh and frozen meat and poultry are perishable, requiring constant refriggration to keep them wholesome. Make them the last items you buy at the store and get them home to your refrigerator or freezer promptly.

2. Yes. For instance, if you buy a product labeled "Sliced Beef and Gravy" you sure of getting more beef than gravy based on weight. A product lableed "Spaghetti Sauce with Meat" will have more sauce than meat. Many products now have cereal or soy protein concentrate added. If they represent more than 3½% of the product they must be declared in the product name such as "All Meat Franks — cereal added", or "Chicken Stroganoff with added soy protein concentrate." Otherwise, they are named among the list of ingredients.

3. This means that the curing solution added to the fresh ham has not all been removed during the smoking and cooking of the product. Hams that contain up to 10 per cent of this added moisture must be labeled in this manner. If more than 10 per cent added moisture is in the ham, it is labeled "Imitation Ham" under federal inspection regulations.

4. Yes. USDA food specialists say as long as it still contains ice crystals or is cold and has been held in the refrigerator no longer than two days after thawing. If you plan to store fresh poultry more than two days before cooking it, put it in the freezer right after buying it or buy the frozen poultry. Check the store wrappings to make sure they have not been punctured and are airtight before freezing meat or poultry. Properly wrapped poultry should maintain good quality when frozen and stored at 0 degrees for up to a year. Poultry that has been completely thawed before refreezing may lose some of its high quality characterisitcs but will still be wholesome.

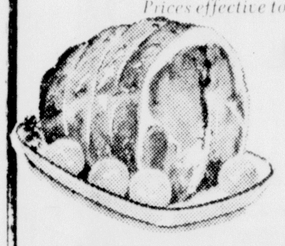

5. Check the name of the product and the list of ingredients. According to the recent amendment to federal meat and poultry inspection regulations if more than 15 per cent poultry meat is added to frankfurters and other cooked sausage products, the name of the product must clearly show its presence as "Frankfurters with Chicken." When less than 15 per cent poultry meat is used in cooked sausage products the poultry is listed only in the list of ingredients.

6. The Wholesome Meat Act of 1967 and the Wholesome Poultry Products Act of 1968. Both were passed to extend inspection safeguards to the entire supply of meat and poultry sold in the United States. These laws strengthen the U.S. Department of Agricutlure's inspection program which covers meat and poultry moving in interstate or foreign commerce. Each law also gives the states a key role in inspection, requiring the development within every state of strong inspection programs to cover products produced and sold within state lines.

Since the Wholesome Meat Act went into effect 48 states have passed state inspection meat laws which have been approved by USDA. Eleven states have passed poultry inspection laws approved by USDA since the Wholesome Poultry Products Act was passed. This inspection is a tax-supported activity — costing each man, woman, and child in the U.S. about 50 cents a year.

7. This means the meat has been graded by a USDA meat grader and "Choice" is the quality grade given that meat. The three highest quality grades are USDA Prime, USDA Choice and USDA Good. The USDA grading program is a voluntary one in which the packer pays USDA to grade his meat. This purple grade shield often seen on fresh meat should not be confused with the purple, round mark of USDA inspection which means the meat has been inspected and passed

Senate Hearing On Pill Controversy Open Today

By BRIAN SULLIVAN

NEW YORK (AP) - Amid increasing controversy, U.S. Senate hearings began today on whether American women are being adequately informed about hazards of the Pill.

The oral contraceptives have been is use for nearly a decade now and in recent months, spurred largely by reports from British scientists, worrisome questions have been getting wide attention.

In previously announcing the hearings on pill safety Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate Monopoly Subcommittee, said: "It appears evident that a substantial number of users are not advised of any of the health hazards or side effects."

Q. HOW MANY women are taking the pill?

A. It is estimated that 8.5 million American women are on the pill, and 18.5 million world-wide. About one million American women, of a world-wide total of six million, use the IUD-the intrauterine device, a coil or loop that can prevent pregnancy for reasons that are unclear.

Q. What is the official U.S. government position on the pill?

A. A Food and Drug Administration advisory panel said last September that oral contraceptives appear to meet federal safety requirements because their benefits outweigh their risks. The panel said women who use oral contraceptives are 4.4 times more likely to suffer blood clots than women who do not. British studies reported up to that time found a 7 to 10 times greater clot risk for pill users.

The U.S. panel said it is still unclear whether there is any link between the pill and cancer.

THE PANEL said clotting from the pill resulted in three deaths in every 100,000 women of child-bearing age per year. A comparison often is made to the number of deaths in pregnancy from all causes, not just clotting -25 deaths per 100,000 births. But this comparison assumes that everyone going off the pill would get pregnant and is not valid.

Q. Did any of the panel members go beyond those statements?

A. Yes. Dr. Louis M. Hellman of the State University of New York, told a news conference: "I would say the light is still yellow: caution."

Since then, Dr. Hellman has said that while the panel held that benefits of the pill outweighed risks, "That doesn't mean that they're absolutely safe." And he adds: "The FDA report was certainly not a clean bill of health."

Women with a history of blood clotting, he says, would be "silly" to use the pill and women with a history of breast or uterine cancer in their immediate families probably would be "ill advised" to use it.

BUT, He continues, the risk of clotting is small and there is no evidence that oral contraceptives cause cancer in humans, although there is a suspicion that they can.

As for fears that the pill might cause cancer, Dr. Hellman noted that it takes about 10 years for a cancer to develop after exposure to some cancer-causing agent. Since the pill has been in wide use only since the mid-1960s, it would take until the mid-70s before information is available.

Q. No, argues Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher, president of Planned Parenthood-World Population, a pill advocate who says he runs the largest pill practice in the world. There are 350,000 women going to his organization's clinics and 76 per cent of them are on the pill.

"I keep abreast of the subject," Dr. Guttmacher notes, saying he thinks the FDA has treated the problem in "adult fashion." The admitted inherent dangers, he says, show up "relatively infrequently." Use of the pill, he says, is justified by its "psycho-sexual" advantages. His judgment: "It is a highly acceptable method of contraception."

THE IUD MIGHT be an acceptable alternative for some, except that American women know it is not as effective as the pill, Dr. Guttmacher says, and there are some medical problems, such as bleeding and cramps in some.

Also, doctors are not well versed in its use, Dr. Guttmacher says: "We have to tune them in to the advantages of the IUD." There have been a few serious pelvic infections from the IUD, however, and perhaps four deaths, he says, that can be attributed to pelvic infections.

Q. What stirred up all this recent concern over the pill?

A. Reports from British scientists linking use of the pill with blood clotting. And in October, the main editorial in The Lancet, a British medical journal, said the pill may cause biochemical changes in all body tissues. More than 50 metabolic body chemistry changes have been reported, the journal said.

"The clinical significance of these findings is unknown," it

Norell Fans Don't Mind High Prices

By ANN HENCKEN

NEW YORK (AP) — In a time when it's said some of the richest women prefer several dresses for less money instead of one at $1,000 . . .

In this time, there is still Norman Norell, high-priced but worth it, according to his band of enthusiasts.

A man with a squirt bottle sprayed "Norell" fragrance across the room here Monday and some people stuck out their hands to catch a little. Big vases of lush white lilies and roses were everywhere.

IT WAS TIME for Norell's spring-summer showing of dresses for which his fans eagerly pay about $750.

For spring, there are capes; cape coats in bright colors with clear, clean lines. Throw them over simple belted dresses, sleeveless and straight.

WHEN A straight-cut blue midi coat with a Chesterfield collar was modeled, a deep masculine, "Aaah!" went up somewhere in the audience. Other designs were greeted with applause.

Scallops edged hems and coat closings. One admirer of a white scalloped-and-belted coat applauded on and on.

For evening, Norell got playful with a whole series of multi-colored dresses — not in prints, but in blocks of color. Two of them had one side in white, one in black. Several were shown in alternate blocks of three or four colors — blue, pink, green and pumpkin-and-white.

Among the capes and midis, the belted coats and cinched waists, other styles were scattered: a candy-striped midi dress with pussy-cat bow at the neck, slacks with snug ankle cuffs, like those of a Balinese dancer, several sailor dresses in knits and one jump suit that got a wolf whistle.

THE WHISTLE should have gone to a black empire dress with a low square neckline. Chunky brilliants were bound to the upper sleeves and neck of a yellow full-length dress.

The diagonal rows that Norell used in his resort collection are back—but in only a few places. His steamer dresses are gone. The wrap look is still there. But uneven hemlines have given way to a bold statement of midi, above-the-knees or floor-length styles.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

DEAR HELEN,

Please tell me what you think of the postal card I received recently from a so-called friend—who didn't have the guts to sign her name. Here it is:

"Dear Mary, It has been over two months since your daughter was married. Don't you think it would be nice if she acknowledged some of the wedding gifts she received by sending the customary thank-you notes? Many people are waiting. — A friend"

My daughter is working, going to college, and taking care of a new husband. She sent out the notes two days before I received the card.

Even though her thank-you's weren't in the mail, would a friend anonymously remind me on a postcard? — MARY

DEAR MARY:

A friend never writes an anonymous letter of criticism. Try to forget this gauche card or suspicion may turn several real friends into potential enemies.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

Good for "Smart and Sneaky" (who wangled invitations for the wives to the annual Christmas office party). Such parties get out of hand and it's unfair to wives who aren't aware of what is going on (or maybe they are.)

There is a spinster secretary at my office who plans Christmas parties and makes sure wives are omitted. After a few drinks she doesn't care whose husband or boy friend she winds up with. She also makes sure she leaves her car at home so some man must volunteer — and when he knows what's waiting for him, he usually does.

Here's a note for wives: Most companies don't have rules barring spouses at Christmas parties. There's no reason why wives can't attend, and if enough call up and complain when they are told they aren't wanted, those wild parties will come to a screeching halt.—WIVES UNITED

DEAR HELEN:

"Smart and Sneaky" evidently blamed the no-wives Christmas party on the secretaries. Not so. Men enjoy this once-a-year free-for-all where anything goes and nobody is supposed to remember it next day.

If they don't want their wives along, the wives shouldn't push themselves into the party. And they shouldn't be so naive as to say their husbands are forced to attend "because of their position as bosses."

I think the wives should plan a party of their own that night, being very secretive about who they are inviting and what they plan. If the men are worried about what their women are up to, they may scratch the Christmas party next year.—ANOTHER SNEAKY ONE

DEAR HELEN:

I have been fighting in my own small way the inequity of Social Security benefits for working wives. The following letter might help the cause, if enough women would tailor it to their employment record and send it to the Treasury Department — together with a copy to their Congressman:

"U. S. Treasury Department, Washington, D. C.: Social Security deductions have been made from my salary in the past 32 years. Since there is now no discrimination by the Government as to sex, race, etc., there should be no discrimination against a working wife being entitled to the same benefits as non-working wives.

"I have determined it will be more feasible for me to accept one-half of my husband's monthly Social Security benefits, rather than my working-wife allowance. Therefore, kindly refund the money deducted from my salary for Social Security payments (approximately $3,000) plus interest to date."—FIGHT, FIGHT, FIGHT!

DEAR FIGHT:

Atta girl. Sock it to 'em! — H

Larribeau-Fields Rite Held Friday

Wed Friday in a 7 p.m. candlelight ceremony in Mill Valley at the Swedish "Ekbacken," home of her grandmother, Mrs. Axel (Mama) Gravander, were Elizabeth Fields and Charles Larribeau, both of San Francisco. A reception was held immediately following the wedding.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Fields of Ashtabula, Ohio. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Larribeau of San Francisco.

Marketta Makel of San Francisco was maid of honor, and the bridegroom's brother, Robert Larribeau Jr. of Oakland, was best man.

Guide Dogs For The Blind To Honor Volunteers On Monday

Six women from Marin County and two from Sonoma County will be among 12 honored Monday at the annual meeting of Guide Dogs for the Blind, Inc. Seven of the eight, with a combined total of 120 years volunteer service, are members of the puppy testing committee, which conducts weekly tests at the school on the future guide dogs.

The honorees are Mmes. Frederic E. Irwin and John Herak of Kentfield, Gordon Zimmer of Mill Valley, Alfred Kardos of San Rafael and A. R. Lubersky of Belvedere. The sixth Marinite to be honored for 20 years service is Mrs. Thurlow Jaegeling of Larkspur, for many years the Larkspur captain of Guide Dogs' Marin County Committee, and presently a hostess for afternoon tours of the school. Mmes. Hugh Clokie and Max Herzog, both of Petaluma, are the Sonoma County award recipients.

Sharing the podium at the luncheon-meeting, to be held at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael at 11 a.m., will be Mrs. Pierpont M. Hamilton of Santa Barbara, president, and executive director Benny O. Larsen.

A feature at the meeting will be a demonstration by two Contra Costa County 4-H guide dog raisers. In addition to Mrs. Hamilton, other members of Guide Dogs' Board of Directors are Mmes. Jerry Walker, Joseph M. Fee, George T. Brady Jr., Donald Fisher, Bliss Knowles, J. W. Mailliard Jr., John R. Metcalf and Julie Kaye Rifkin and Messrs. E. O. Boyer, John L. Bradley, Homer Keaton, Dean Anderson, Harold L. Mack Jr., George H. Mahoney, Francis A. Martin Jr., C. W. Stubenrauch and H. J. Vanasse.

Following the business meeting, luncheon will be served at 12:30 pm.

THE MARIN Nurses Association, District 28, will meet at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Marin General Hospital.

Reginald Wareham, respiratory care specialist and instructor for acute respiratory care courses held at St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco, will speak.

Wareham will discuss rational oxygen therapy and the care of the patient with chronic obstructive lung disease.

Nurses at Marin General Hospital will serve refreshments.

MEMBERS OF Bay Area branches of the American Association of University Women are invited to tour the Lawrence Hall of Science in Berkeley and to attend a lecture by Ferdinand S. Ruth, assistant to the director, biological sciences, on Saturday.

Tours will be available from 9 to 10:30 a.m., with Ruth's talk on "This Beleaguered Earth — Can Man Survive?" to be held at 11 a.m.

Members of the Marin Branch are acting as hostesses and the program is sponsored by the Hayward Branch of the American Association of University Women, assisted by seven other East Bay branches.

MEMBERS AND GUESTS of the Outdoor Art Club garden section in Mill Valley will hear Helen Van Cleave Park of Mill Valley speak tomorrow on the legends of California plants and Marin gardens.

She will talk following the noon luncheon at the clubhouse, for which members will bring lunches. Coffee and cookies will be served by garden section chairman, Mmes. Eugene Richardson and Andrew Cassell.

Miss Park is vice president of the Marin County Historical Society and is currently doing research for the new Marin County history being written by John Mason of Point Reyes.

THE VOLUNTEER Bureau needs volunteers to tutor Spanish-speaking persons in English. Tutors need not be fluent in Spanish. Classes will be held in downtown San Rafael on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from January to June.

Also needed are persons to give clerical help such as posting, typing and stuffing envelopes. Volunteers may call the Volunteer Bureau for an appointment interview.

He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Monti of Alameda and Mrs. Anna Mazzoni of Sonoma. He has also been employed by the Novato Parks and Recreation Department in Novato.

The couple plan to be married Aug. 15.

Senate Hearing Se To Examine Health Hazards Of The Pill

said, "but clearly they cannot be ignored, since they raise the possibility of irreversible structural changes, such as atherosclerosis, clogging of arteries after 10 or 20 years on oral contraceptives . . .

"IN VIEW of these doubts, the wisdom of administering such compounds to healthy women for many years must be seriously questioned."

But a report in the December Lancet has clouded the matter somewhat. In preliminary findings of a large clotting study, researchers found that young women who use the pill are far more likely to smoke cigarettes, and to be heavy smokers. Thus the question is whether the smoking influenced the blood clotting, rather than the pill.

The most recent British studies indicated a correlation between pills containing high levels of a synethetic form of the female sex hormone estrogen and high clotting rates. U.S. health officials have asked the British for their figures and if they are judged valid, new standards might be established here.

Q. Why is estrogen in the pill?

A. Estrogen and another synthetic female hormone, progestogen, prevent ovulation. The ordinary pill, taken for three of each four weeks, contains both in combination. The so-called sequential pill regiment calls for estrogen-only tablets for most of the period, followed by an estrogen-progrestogen tablet for the remaining time.

THE BRITISH REPORTED a link between the incidence of blood clotting and the use of pills containing more than 50 micrograms of estrogen and urged users to switch to brands containing not more than 50 micrograms. According to one report, perhaps half of the 8.5 million American women taking the pill use products containing more than 50 micrograms. About 25 million micrograms equal one ounce.

Q. Just what are the pregnancy figures?

A. The IUD results in 27 pregnancies per 1,000 women per year, according to Guttmacher, whereas the ordinary pill allows seven pregnancies per 1,000 per year. The figure of seven, moreover, could be reduced to one if the pill is taken correctly, Dr. Guttmacher says. With the so-called sequential pill, the figure is 14 pregnancies per 1,000 per year.

Q. So the pill is better than the IUD?

A. NOT IN the opinion of Dr. Hugh J. Davis, director of the contraceptive clinic at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine. Not for everyone.

"There's been a stampede toward the use of the oral contraceptive," he says, "because it's simple to use and highly effective. But like so many things, the more you look into it, the more it turns out to be a can of worms."

It is clear, he says, that a healthy young woman can take a low dose oral contraceptive for a few years, postponing the time when she begins her family, or spacing her first and second pregnancy or second and third pregnancy.

"I'm really concerned," he says, "about the 35-year-old woman with four children who plans to take the agent over a prolonged period of time."

He is concerned, he says, not so much by the blood clotting problem, but because the key estrogen component is known to produce breast cancer in five different species of animals. And he says that all the agents known to produce cancer in humans also cause cancer in animals. "I think," he says, "it's asking a great deal to expect this to be a one-way street only with oral contraceptives."

SAYING IT WOULD be years before the cancers would show up, Dr. Davis adds: "To foster a massive, long-range experiment involving millions of women on prolonged use is extremely unwise medically."

The 35-year-old woman with four children is better off, he says, using an IUD. For the couple who has decided they want no more children, he adds, sterilization is another alternative.

Q. Are there any other alternatives?

A. Research is under way that may produce new methods of birth control:

—Micro or mini-dose pills that may cause fewer unwanted side effects.

—Single-shot injections or implanted hormone capsules that might prevent pregnance for months to a year or years.

—"MORNING AFTER" pills for women who don't take or who forget the regular pills.

—Contraceptive pills for men.

Victims Wait To Seek Help

Rochester, N.Y., (WMNS) - A study of heart attack victims reveals that it took the average patient more than three hours to make up his mind to seek medical help. Transportation to the hospital usually took an additional 20 minutes.

These findings tend to dash hopes that mobile coronary care units can make a sizable dent in heart disease fatalities. Drs. Sidney Goldstein and Arthur J. Moss, associate professors at the University of Rochester School of Medicine, point out, since the problem lies with human indecisiveness.

Furthermore, case histories of 160 heart attack victims show that the most stricken patients procrastinated the longest in turning to a doctor despite the fact that prompt hospitalization can be lifesaving. The investigators conclude that patients must be trained to recognize and react promptly to danger signals.

Fussy Patron Causes The Potato Chip Discovery

In the year 1853 a very fussy patron of Moon's Lake House in Saratoga Springs, N.Y., persisted in returning orders of French fried potatoes to chef George Crum, insisting that they were not thin enough.

In a spirit of righteous sarcasm, Crum shaved off a wafer thin slice of potato, and dropped it into the deep, hot fat of a frying pan.

Pleased by the taste, Crum sent a batch to his fussy patron, who immediately loved them. These wafer thin slices became known as Saratoga chips and soon could be found on menus throughout the country.

Athletic Problems Grow At Marin, Sonoma Colleges

BY GARY TISCHLER

Problems, problems, everybody's got the problems..

That's what my mother used to say, and I guess she's right. And she never even hear of College of Marin or Sonoma State College.

The case of the disappearing swimmers, and the disappearing top-grade football players are problems at College of Marin while an athletic program that is mushrooming in an agonizing fashion on an otherwise booming campus is the major problem at Sonoma State.

College of Marin swimming coach Bob Justice is faced with the prospect of a great season that might have been. Might have if some of the top swimming prospects walking around campus would come out for the team.

"We could have a great team this year, if everybody there would come out," Justice said. "But I guess it's too much effort and too much work for some of them."

Expected to be among the missing faces are Ken James, one of the finest if not the best middle distance swimmer in Marin County at Redwood High School last year, along with John Malvino and John Werner, also of Redwood, to name a few. "Maybe part of it might be a personality conflict," Justice said. "Some of the boys were on the water polo team, and I made it pretty clear that I expected quite a bit."

Justice still has quite a bit of talent—freestyler Bill Kuhn of Novato, individual medley man Bruce Averill of Tamalpais, Mark Murray of Novato, veteran Charlie Colilns, back from last year's team, and Greg Myers of Redwood.

"I guess I'd rather have the kids that want to work" Justice said.

Dick Read, head football and tennis coach at Marin, is worried somewhat about changing times. In other words, where have all the players gone? To four-year schools and right away, it seems.

Time was when Read or whoever was coaching at Marin, would get a fair share of the top-drawer football players graduating out of Marin County schools. But the fair share is dwindling.

"Last year, we had three kids go to UCLA alone," Read said. "That's never happened. We used to have maybe one or two kids go to the big schools but last year, Cal got a couple, Washington State, Stanford. There were quite a few and that's not even mentioning the smaller schools."

As a result, Read figures he may have missed out on one of his finest teams ever last year.

"We had a really big turnout last year," he said. "But we needed about maybe three or four really top-drawer players more and we just didn't get them. That made the whole difference."

AT SONOMA STATE, athletic director Ed Rudloff is trying to get an athletic program in high gear amid controversy.

Technically, Sonoma State is without a football coach at the moment and the Cossacks will be going into their first year of varsity competition next fall after a junior varsity season last year. Lloyd Helgeson was fired summarily from his position as football coach, an action that created some heated controversy at the growing Sonoma State campus, which has seen the student body jump to about 3,200 quite a bit of which is not exactly athletically oriented.

"We're trying to get a football program going here," Rudloss said. "And it's an uphill fight all the way. Financing is one of the bigger problems. There's not enough money so we may have to go to the people, try to get some kind of booster support. I think we have quite a bit of support in the community."

The Helgerson controversy is currently up in the air. Helgerson's last appeal on campus is with the school's grievance committee which won't take up the matter until its next meeting Feb. 9.

"The Helgerson thing has no effect on the implementation of the athletic program," Rudloff said. "I do feel we have a better sports program than some people realize. It will take time."

JIM GILMARTIN

Marin Golfer May Start A New Fad

JIM SHORTS:

If you notice someone walking around the Marin Country Club's golf course in Novato these days wearing a gold football helmet, don't summon the little man in the white suit with the butterfly net.

It's just golfer Bob Vannucci showing off 49er defensive end Stan Hindman's headgear he won as a door prize at last Friday's banquet of the Marin Chapter, 49er Boosters Club.

Bob might find it handy on these rainy days. Also, when he's playing in front of a women's foresome.

He might even start a new fad.

Grueling Schedule For Kids

The Redwood High School freshman, who has been skating "seriously" for about two and one-half years, placed third in the men's novice competition at last weekend's Pacific Coast Figure Skating Championships in Berkeley to qualify for the nationals at Tulsa, Okla. Feb. 4-7.

"We get up at 4:30 every morning and drive Forrest to practice at Berkeley or Santa Rosa and on weekends we go to Squaw Valley for more practice," said Forrest's mother, Mrs. D. A. Craig.

"Five months ago we started him working seriously with four of the best coaches in the area and the improvement has paid off. Now he's going to the nationals."

Keeps Busy In Other Fields

But don't think that the ice rink is Forrest Craig's world. In the past year he has found time to become an Eagle Scout and also build an eight-foot long hydroplane.

"He likes to keep busy in his spare time," said Mrs. Craig, matter-of-factly.

TAMALPAIS HIGH SCHOOL'S class in sailing learned all about Richardson Bay's wild tides last Thursday when the kids found themselves marooned by an extraordinarily high tide which washed away their gangplank.

After watching her students wade ashore, instructor Jeanne Nooney observed: "Now my students know that in order to be sailors they occasionally have to get their feet wet."

I don't think the sailing class at Marin Catholic has that problem, I said dryly.

Lacrosse Team Needs Coach

ANY ADULT well-versed in lacrosse who'd like to take a fling at coaching that sport should contact Bob Fleak of Novato or Peter Schneider of Tiburon.

The San Rafael Junior Lacrosse Club is in dire need of a mentor for the 1970 season which runs from mid-March through May.. The junior Program also includes two Novato teams.

POP WARNER Football's loss is Fairfax's gain.

Tony Barbera, who for eight years coached the Drake Junior Pirates of the Marin Warner Conference, has left that position to become parks and recreation director at Fairfax.

I am sure that Tony will put as much heart and soul into the Fairfax job as he did in giving Drake a sound junior football program.

Big Water Polo Match On Tap

Terra Linda and Redwood High Schools prepped for their big water polo confrontation Friday by ripping into lesser opponents while slow-but-sure Tamalpais did it again.

Terra Linda whipped San Rafael, 18-2, Redwood tumbled San Marin 10-1, and Tamalpais eased by Drake, 6-1. Terra Linda and Redwood, currently tied for the Marin County Athletic League lead, will meet at Terra Linda Friday in a match that will probably decide the loop crown.

PREP BASKETBALL

San Marin Faces Early Showdown

Somewhere at Novato's San Marin High School today, quite a few people, basketball players mostly, are feeling like cheerfully inflated balloons.

The feeling may not last past Friday, but right now the Mustangs are on top of the Marin County Athletic League standings, along with no-surprise Redwood, and things have turned out that way because San Marin won a showdown cross-town rivalry from Novato High, 67-62, at Novato High School before a capacity crowd yesterday.

That was the Mustangs' second league win in as many outings, which is just as well as Redwood has done. The Giants thoroughly demolished Marin Catholic, 73-41 in Larkspur yesterday.

BIG DAY

Friday happens to be the day when San Marin and Redwood will battle it for possession of the league lead and who knows . . .

In other action yesterday, San Rafael, still a little wounded from an upset at the hands of Drake last week, took it out on Terra Linda, running away with it all in the second half for a 64-42 rout while Drake ran out of upsets, but not for lack of trying, in losing to Tamalpais, 66-62.

Forty-one points by San Marin's hammer-like one-two punch of Gary Howard and 6-foot-8 Dana LaFerriere plus a six-point spurt by Brad O'Reilly in the final period helped the Mustangs upend Novato despite a 22-point spree by Gene Barnes, who bounced back from a luckless league opener.

TIE AT HALF

Howard scored 15 of his 21 points in the second half as the Mustangs broke from a 29-29 halftime tie. LaFerriere got 20 points to go with the 28 he got in a win over Marin Catholic last week. Joe DeMaestri added 16 points for Novato.

Redwood absolutely stifled the ill-fated Wildcats, who now have a 3-14 record. The Giants allowed the 'Cats only two field goals in the first half in spurting to a 38-14 halftime lead.

Four Redwood players—Bill Challender with 14, Jerry Piro with 11, super-sub Scott Trobbe with 12 and Roger Smith with 10—all got into double figures while Mike Parnow topped Marin Catholic with 11 points. Challender hauled in 19 rebounds while the Giants shot 45 per cent.

DURYEE

San Rafael had a tiny bit of trouble with Terra Linda at various occasions, that is, until furious Don Duryee, a smooth-shooting 6-8 senior center took over.

Duryee scored 18 of his 23 points in the second half, hooking and fading away for nine fielders and the Trojans, with no comparable big man, couldn't handle it all despite some good shooting by Mark Jones, who canned 13 points, same as Bruce Nave of San Rafael.

Duryee got 21 rebounds while jumping-jack Allan Rossi had 14 for the Bulldogs, who controlled the boards, to say the least.

NOT ENOUGH

Drake, after getting only 21 points in the first half, got 41 in the second half against Tamalpais, but it wasn't enough as the Indians came through with the same total in the second half.

The Pirates shut off hot-shooting guard Ken Gommeringer, holding him to four points, but 6-7 Bill Secor exploded for 26 points and Jim McCammon took up the slack with 22 points for the Indians.

Marin Tar Cagers Take To The Road

The Tars, 2-1 in Camino Norte Conference play, go to Redwood City to visit Canada Junior College, which could spell trouble.

"They haven't won a league game yet," College of Marin coach John Panagakis said. "They could be primed. They're pretty big and fast. They're not going to be a pushover."

A good indication of Canada's potential was a 117-114 loss to Santa Rosa last week, which is not bad scoring for a junior college game.

Sonoma Quint Falls To Cardinal Newman

The big game came too early for Sonoma High School's basketball team yesterday.

The Dragons ran into Cardinal Newman of Santa Rosa and dropped a tough 57-52 North Bay League II verdict as they hit on only three of 25 shots in the second half to even their conference mark at 1-1.

Dragon ace Dick Romberg was held to just one point by Cardinal Newman. Sonoma is now 9-2 on the season.

Rancho Cotate evened its North Bay II mark at 1-1 with a 66-50 rout of Healdsburg at Rohnert Park as Mike Stephens led the way with 18 points.

Meanwhile, in North Bay I action, Petaluma pushed its league mark to 2-1, routing Ukiah, 78-50, at Petaluma as junior center Joe Rodola poured in 28 points to go with veteran Ross Goree's 18 points and sophomore guard Kevin Gilmore's 11 points.

North Bay I co-leader Montgomery of Santa Rosa struggled past Vallejo, 52-44, and Napa whipped fading Santa Rosa, 75-63.

Raiders' Madden, Vikings' Grant Named Top Coaches

Combined AP and UPI—

NEW ORLEANS—John Madden, the Oakland Raiders' young rookie coach in the American Football League, and Bud Grant of the Minnesota Vikings of the National Football League, were named the winners of the Professional Football Writers of America John Ridell Awards as Coach of the Year in their respective leagues.

LOS ANGELES—Dick Vermeil, former assistant coach at Stanford and head of the Los Angeles Rams last season, yesterday was named to the UCLA football staff, replacing Jim Camp, who coached the Bruin quarterbacks, pass receivers and ball carriers and handled offensive planning. Camp resigned last week to return to the East.

Baseball

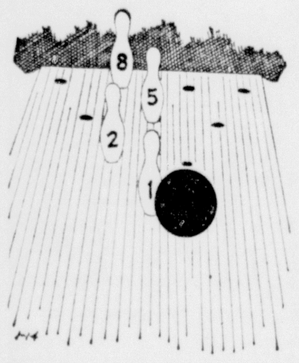

ST. LOUIS—Bob Gibson, only the second St. Louis Cardinal pitcher to have four 20-victory seasons, has signed his 1970 baseball contract, General Manager Bing Devine said today.

Gibson had a 20-13 record last year. Dizzy Dean was the other Cardinal to win 20 games at least four seasons.

The Cardinals declined to discuss money matters, but it was reported Gibson signed for somewhere around $125,000.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

Hopefully, you won't have to throw at the 1-2-5-8 set-up often, but if you do, it is well to remember that your normal strike ball will usually bring down all four of the pins. You will have to resist the urge to let the ball go to the left of the headpin, for this will cause you to leave the 5-pin standing.

PEBBLE BEACH—Another golf course is planned along the exclusive 17-mile Drive on the Monterey Peninsula. The proposed 6,485-yard, 18-hole, par-71 layout will be built at Spanish Bay near the Pacific Grove entrance. It will be part of a multi-million dollar hotel complex planned for the area.

THE SPORTING GENTRY

Indian Valley Pro Jeff McAndrew Started Swinging At Tender Age

BY RALPH CHATOIAN

When Jeff McAndrew was a boy of 11 living in Merced, he started swinging a golf club and decided then and there that was going to be his game.

Now a 30-year-old family man, father of two, it's more than a game, it's his profession.

McAndrew is the personable head professional at the Indian Valley Golf Course in Novato, a job he's had since October, 1964, making him second only to Mill Valley veteran Malcom Brown in length of time heading a Marin County golf course.

TEXAS NATIVE

Jeff, a native of Stamford, Tex., was brought to California by his family when a youth of 5, living a short time in Berkeley before moving to Merced.

At Merced High School, McAndrew played prep football in addition to golf, but it was that golf team that brings back the real memories.

"We had a great high school golf team at Merced," recalled McAndrew. "Five of the guys on that team are golf pros now."

He gives much of his early golf playing credit to Lyle Wehrman, the pro at Merced Country Club who has since moved to Diablo Valley Country Club in Danville, Contra Costa County.

HELPED PRO

"I lived right across the street from him," McAndrew said. "I got a job helping out at the pro shop and played golf almost every day."

By the time Jeff was 12 he was shooting golf in the 90s and when he was 14 he was in the low 80s and 70s.

After high school, McAndrew went to College of Sequoias in Visalia for a year and then served two years in the Army, playing on an Army golf team, of course. After his Army days came another year at College of Sequoias.

GIVES LESSONS

He went back to Merced Country Club to serve as an assistant to Wehrman for three years, then came over to Indian Valley where he runs the pro shop and gives lessons.

He says he can't get in any more than one or two rounds of golf a week . . . "There just isn't the time when you're running a shop."

Jeff, his pretty wife Linda and their two children, Jeffy, 4, and Kelly, 6, live in Novato, a short drive to the golf course overlooking Stafford Lake. But they still keep in contact with friends and relatives in Merced.

When McAndrew went into the golf profession, he knew tournament golf wasn't for him, not with all that traveling around the country. "I have a lot of friends on the tour and haven't seen any of them make it yet," he says about the tough chances on the pro circuit.

AMATEUR BOWLER

The 5-foot-10½, 205-pound golf pro also bowls in a mixed league with his wife. How's his bowling game? Heck. Let's just say he never wanted to be a professional bowler anyway.

Hot Dogs Blanked

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — During an American Football League game some pranksters climbed up behind the scoreboard and changed the words, "San Diego," to read "Hot Dogs." The scoreboard operator stayed in place for several minutes. The San Diego Chargers were far from hot that day, losing to the Denver Broncos 13-0.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Tools and Leverage Keys To Boat-Moving

Ever marvel at the ease with which piano movers handle a Baby Grand piano? You did?

Then you must have noticed that this facility derives not from monumental strength but from an ability to use tools and leverage to the maximum advantage and the willingness to plan ahead and cooperate with others.

Take a tip from the movers when you're handling your outboard motor, particularly when it comes to mounting it on the boat's transom.

For example, no boater even remotely familiar with the movers' techniques would ever board a beached craft over the bows and walk the length of the boat carrying the motor aft to the transom. There's too much chance of falling.

Instead, turn the boat around and pull the stern up on land. Then set the motor in place while standing on "terra firma."

When your boat is tied to a wharf or dock that is chest high, the first impulse might be to stand in the boat, swing the motor off the dock and bend over with it.

This would make a professional mover wince. When held high, a relatively heavy object is difficult to control . . . leverage is against you. It's safer to lower the motor on the anchor line.

If the dock is only waist high however, sit in the stern and have someone pass the motor down to you by its carrying handle until it rests on the boat. Then you can control it.

Mounting a large outboard on a trailered boat is easy since you have an enormous lever at your disposal . . . the trailer itself. Have an adult hold the motor vertical, with the skeg resting on a board or the ground. Then raise the trailer tongue high enough to let the boat transom slip under the motor's clamp screws.

The tongue is jointed in the middle and by pulling a pin the boat can be tilted back without unhitching it from the car. Several trailer manufacturers make this type of trailer and in shallow launching spots, this can be a big help.

Ans. 8 The top line motors for 1970, from 115 to 135 hp weigh 245 to 261 lbs.

Ans — Use a partly inflated inner tube to lay the motor on. This cushions the impacts and the resulting friction with the rubber holds it steady on turns and rough roads.

A Well-Mannered Football Team

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) North Carolina State's football team was the least penalized squad in the nation during the 1969 season. The Wolfpack, second to South Carolina in the Atlantic Coast Conference race, averaged only 21.9 yards in penalties per game.

Pistons Whip Warriors

After losing to Dave Bing and the Pistons 115-102 at Detroit Tuesday night for only the second time in five games, the Warriors try to snap a four-game losing streak tonight against the tough Atlanta Hawks, leaders of the NBA's Western Division.

THIRD STRAIGHT

Bing scored 9 of his team's 13 points in the final two minutes as the Pistons broke open a close game to post their third straight win. Bing finished with 21 points.

San Francisco couldn't stand prosperity. The Warriors led 77-66 in the third quarter only to fall back 83-82 at the end of the period.

Hot outside shooting by Joe Ellis and Jeff Mullins helped the Warriors forge into their 11-point lead in the second half. Mullins finished with 36 points while Ellis bucketed 32.

Subs Pace Cal Over Portland

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — California, relying on its bench in the first half, overpowered the University of Portland 84-66 Tuesday night in an intersectional basketball clash.

The Bears went with reserves in the first half and built a 36-27 lead over the cold-shooting Portland club. California's starters played the second half and increased the spread to the final 18-point margin.

California, which hiked its season record to 7-5, got 19 points from Jackie Ridgle, who played only the second half.

Seals' Sad Streak Continues

OAKLAND (AP) — Philadelphia's 3-1 National Hockey League victory over Oakland Tuesday night added to three streaks—a good one for the Flyers and two on the negative side for the Seals.

Flyers' winger Simon Nolet scored two third-period goals to break a 1-1 tie in the only NHL game, giving the Flyers three victories against two losses in their last five games.

EIGHTH STRAIGHT

It was also Oakland's eighth straight game without a victory, and the fifth-place Seals will try to snap the streak Thursday night with their fourth straight victory of the season over Minnesota.

Oakland tied it at 2:31 of the final period on a goal by Norm Ferguson, who had entered the game for the first time at the start of the third period.

Rookie Bob Clarke, who had assisted on Gendron's goal, assisted on Nolet's go-ahead score at 4:56 of the final period. Nolet's second goal came at 14:53.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday Jan. 14, the 14th day of 1970 with 351 to follow.

The moon is in its first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

In 1943 President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill began a 10-day meeting in Morocco.

LBJ Is Grandpa For Third Time

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Former President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson became grandparents for the third time Sunday when daughter Luci Nugent gave birth to a seven-pound, 10-ounce girl.

A spokesman at Seton Hospital said the girl, who has not been named, "looks like Luci."

Patrick Nugent, already the father of Patrick Lyndon Nugent, who will be 3 June 21, smiled when he heard the announcement. He said his new daughter has dark hair.

A Misadventure Into The Art Of Taking A Worthless Finesse

If you've enrolled yourself in our little post-graduate course in the art of not finessing, you're ready for one of the misadventures of Miserable Milton. The poor fellow wins a finesse only when it makes no difference. When it does make a difference, he shouldn't have taken the finesse to begin with.

TRIES FINESSE

West led the deuce of spades, and Miserable Milton joyfully tried a finesse with dummy's queen. You must give the poor fellow credit for one thing: he's always happy to try a finesse in spite of his terrible track record.

East won with the king of spades and fired back the jack of hearts. Milton really had to try this finesse, but of course it lost. Back came a heart to the ace, and Milton now had to try the club finesse. Milton was really miserable when this lost, especially when East peeled off the rest of the hearts to collect a two-trick penalty.

GOOD ODDS

"The odds are 7 to 1 against losing three finesses in the same hand," Miserable Milton announced.

"Even if they were 77 to 1, you'd manage to lose them all," North grumbled.

Of course you've noticed that M. M. should not have taken the spade finesse at the first trick. He is sure of his game if he puts up the ace of spades, enters his hand with a diamond and leads the queen of clubs for a finesse.

LATER ACTION

East takes the king of clubs and returns the jack of hearts, but South is sure of one spade, one heart, three diamonds and four clubs even though the heart finesse loses.

If you're playing the same sort of hand in a match-point duplicate tournament, you have to take the spade finesse at the first trick. The odds are very good that this finesse won't cost you the game, and overtricks are very important in tournament play.

DAILY QUESTION

You hold:

♠ K 6 4
♥ J 10 9 4
♦ 10 3 2
♣ K 8

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

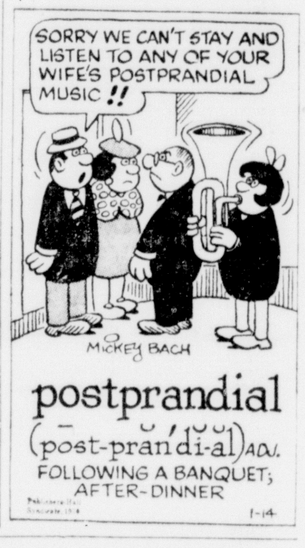

Your hand is just a shade too weak for an invitational bid of some kind. Partner will probably pass two hearts, but he will try three hearts if he has good heart support and 17 or 18 points. If so, you will gladly accept the invitation to game.

Yesterday's Answer

A Lackluster Market Day

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock prices lost ground in lackluster trading today as investors seemed to be awaiting President Nixon's budget and state of the union messages before committing themselves.

Among the most active issues were Unfon Camp, Transcon, Belco Petroleum, Schlitz, Lum's, Consolidated Foods, Litton Industries, Xerox, Eastern Airlines and Occidental Petroleum.

Most airline issues were off and aerospace issues showed some point sized losers F-111 program.

Shame Of The Cities: 'Prosperity' But No Heat

The decay of the United States' largest city was grimly evidenced by a recent story in the New York Times.

"Complaints by the thousands poured into city offices yesterday from tenants whose apartments were without heat, a chronic winter problem and the most acute symptom of housing decay here," said the lead paragraph of the story by David K. Shipler.

It went on that the city's special complaint telephone number received 6,820 "no heat" complaints in three days.

THIS OUTCRY from shivering humanity is not because New York landlords are heartless. The city has had rent controls for 26 years. That is why it takes the complaints and puts pressure on landlords. In 297 cases where "emergency conditions" were found in the first two days of this year, the city itself sent crews to repair boilers or fill fuel tanks, or itself hired superintendents to look after the maintenance of the apartments.

"In a recent study, still to be made public," reported the Times, "the Rand Corp. found that controls kept rents in many buildings below the monthly $20 to $25 a room it said was needed for adequate maintenance and reasonable profit."

THE TIMES also related the case of a South Bronx apartment house owner who had been in court 12 times on charges of lack of heat, accumulation of rubbish, exposed wiring, and other hazards, and had been assessed a total of $185 in fines — considerably less, no doubt, than it would have cost to correct the conditions.

"Officials say that some owners 'milk' the buildings by putting rents into their pockets instead of into repairs. In some neighborhoods, narcotics addicts break furnaces to drive out tenants, leaving apartments vulnerable to thefts. . .

IF IT SEEMS strange that a landlord would seek turnover in tenants, the reason is explained by the rent control law. It allows a 15 per cent increase every two years — but only if the apartment is vacant.

Why does New York have rent controls? The reason is that, if it did not have them, officials fear rents would go so high that thousands would simply be unable to rent any kind of shelter, and would have to live in the streets or parks — a situation like that in Calcutta, India.

THERE IS AN UNREALITY about the whole picture, yet it is all too real. It is a part of the decay that is evidenced also by New York's inability to clean up its garbage or keep its streets safe.

These things contribute to "the shame of the cities" as the 1970s begin. The same problems, though to lesser degree, plague other large cities besides New York.

They are evidence, also, of the misery caused by inflation, which makes such things as building repairs too costly, and grinds the unskilled, the retired, and the only partially employable in poverty amid the "prosperity" of high average incomes as shown by the government's optimistic statistics.

Details Needed On Commute Plan

Ut was interesting to hear from MR. Stpehan C. Leonoudakis about a public hearing held some months ago relative to elimination of commute books. Was this public hearing well advertised and set up so the average worker could attend this meeting without loss of pay?

What is the plan proposed for the commute who lives in San Rafael, Novato, or San Anselmo? Can he then get to San Francisco in less than an hour with this system?

Since half our lives are spent earning a living Ifail to see how one living in these areas can use your scheduled ferry plan without adding two hours more time to and from work, assuming his hours are 8 a.m. to 5p.m

Please show me Mr. Leonoudakis what your plan is and how long it is going to take Mr. and Mrs. San Anselmo to and from San Francisco on your system. Iam sure others are also interested

If one uses your subsidized ferry he must drive to Tiburon, pay to park, pay the ferry fare, and have a total cost of about $3. each working day.

Error In Fill Ordinance Story

Please allow me to correct a few of the statements in the item headed "Ordinance On Filling Studied" which appeared in the I-J for Jan. 7. The item has to do with action being taken by the government of Marin County to provide for the interests of both private individuals and the public in those vital resources, the tideland of Marin.

It should be understood that the ordinance applies to area below an elevation of 7.5 feet directly above the mean lower low water datum and from that point for one hundred feet toward land. It does not apply to areas 7.5 feet below mean lower low water as stated in the article because that is an impossibility.

It is stated that the supervisors (collective) differ with Planning Commissioner Margaret Azevdo on the matter of where the burden of proof should rest. This is in error as I can assure you, as a spectator, more than one supervisor indicated no disagreement with the commissfoner's statements.

Finally as to the matter of proving public benefit, there are alternatives stated in the proposed ordinance specifically placed there to help builders and at the same time to protect the environmental quality of the shores of Marin County.

Proposed Drunken Driving Law Would Use English Approach

By HENRY C. MAC ARTHUR

SACRAMENTO - (CNS) - A comparatively new approach to the drunken driving problem is being taken by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-Campbell.

He has introduced legislation which would would adopt the prevention system prevalent in England, which he says is the most effective yet found for keeping drunken drivers off the roads.

His legislation provides that anyone driving with a blood content level over .15 is guilty of driving under the influence of alcohol, and subject to fine, jail, and seizure of the driver's license.

THE MEASURE scraps the current mandatory choice of blood, breath or urine tests and substitutes a three-step test process.

This involves a breath test at the secene of driving, providing release if the content is under .08 and arrest if above. If arrested, a blood test at the police station is provided. The tests would be mandatory. .

Vasconcellos says the English system has two major advantages over present law.

It provides more speedy , clear and effective judicial process and punishment and a clear warning to the drinking driver by presenting a standard that readily can be measured before he enters his automobile.

"THE MEASURE I have introduced," Vasconcellos said "is grounded on scientific data establishing that any person with a blood alcohol content of .08 or above is impaired in his driving abilities.

"While the use of alcohol, not giving risk of harm to other persons, is a personal, rather than governmental decision, no person has the right to risk harm to others by driving while impaired by alcohol, and government should provide effective means to prevent this."

California operates now under the "implied consent" law, which presumes motorists halted on the highways consent to either blood, breath or urine tests, with suspension of the driver's license if refused. Over 10 per cent blood alcohol is considered enough to warrant arrest for drunken driving, while under .05 is not considered sufficient for arrest. Between .05 and .10, however, is considered only with other evidence as to whether the driver was intoxicated.

The assemblyman says that the English system has been used in that country for two years and that during the time, the fatality rate from accidents involviing drinking has dropped 16 percent.

First Step To End Violence: Get Rid Of Massive Poverty

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

(Editor's note: In their third of five articles on President Nixon's first year in office, Roscoe and Geoffrey Drummond look behind the violence in the nation for causes and a solution.)

WASHINGTON—There's only one good solution to violence in America:

1. Attack the violence.

2. Attack the causes of violence.

3. Do it by putting national priority on one single, central action to prove that something big can be done right off.

The way to meet it is now widely accepted. The means are at hand. The will must be created.

CERTAINLY WE MUST apply strong legal restraint to violators of valid law. We cannot tolerate violence. The violent do not want social reform. They want social destruction. A democratic society cannot long endure in constant and destructive tumult.

We must recognize that our political institutions have been dangerously unresponsive to the nation's problems. This spreads despair that nothing adequate will be done. And that breeds wider acceptance of violence to get something done.

Something can be done, and the way to get on with it is to do one thing well--end pervasive poverty amid pervasive plenty. This provides the key to other doors of great social progress.

OF THE TWO STEPS to cope with violence the failure to respond effectively to the most acute social problems-from poverty to pollution-is the most perilous.

The reason:

The violent are a small minority. The violence of the past year was dangerous though manageable. But it won't be if it is allowed to become contagious.

It will become contagious only if our political institutions continue to be so rigid and lethargic that the legitimate grievances of millions of people go unmet.

Then the deceptive and tempting pleas of the violent-minded–that democracy's institutions have to be torn down because they aren't working–could become contagious.

Then the immediate worst to happen will not be the destruction of government, but the tough repression of the destructionists in a way which cannot fail to nourish authoritarian government and to diminish the liberties of everyone.

The need is for government to show that it can respond, not only to the demands of order but to the demands of change.

Everything can't be done at once–and shouldn't be. Every ghetto in every city can't be rebuilt overnight. Every racial injustice can't be righted by passing another law. Massive pollution can't be instantly cleaned up.

This is why we believe that the President and the Congress should take one transcendent priority to meet the most painful need of millions of people and do something equal to solving it:

THIS IS NOT a radical goal. It is a conservative and humane and practical goal. It is supported by conservative economists like Dr. Milton Friedman, who was Barry Goldwater's economic consultant in 1964; by conservative groups like the National Association of Manufacturers.

A conservative President, Richard Nixon, is beginning to point the way. He proposes an annual income floor of $1.600 and wage supplements until a combined earned income and supplement reach $3.900.

Now the Commission on Income Maintenance, headed by Ben W. Heineman, head of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad, totally supports the Nixon program, except that it believes more can and should be done sooner.

The Heineman Commission, which devoted two years to its study, pleads that something big enough be done to show that pervasvie poverty can be ended.

It shows that the lot of 10 million households, embracing 37 million people in poverty, can be radically improved by the expenditure of approximately $7 billion annually.

NOTHING WOULD do more to dispel cynicism about government, to restore faith and confidence that government can do something big right.

This would be the relevant and radiant evidence of things to come, which is the very foundation of faith.

Democracy, as Adlai Stevenson once remarked, is not self-executing. It must be made to work.

The need is not to preserve the status quo. At many points the status quo needs to be improved. The overriding need is to preserve the process by which the status quo can be improved peacefully.

One Reason Why School Taxes Keep Going Up

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Many school board members and superintendents grouse about the way the State of California apportions money to school districts. They claim it is needlessly complicated, always unpredictable, and generally unrealistic.

Fed up with the situation, the Fairfax School District board fired off a letter recently to Gov. Ronald Reagan, chairmen of the Senate and Assembly education committees, and several other legislators.

The letter sets forth one reason why local school taxes keep rising at the same time the state is pouring money into the education system.

"THERE SEEMS to be a contradiction in purpose" wrote the board, over the signature of Supt. H. Reginald Hammond, its secretary, "when districts are cutting back on established programs such as music, art, foreign language, etc., and increasing class size due to lack of adequate funding, to have the state at the same time provide special purpose apportionments in order to establish new programs."

Further, the letter declared, state apportionments do not necessarily go to the districts most in need of them. Fairfax district last year had next to the lowest per-pupil expenditure of any school district in Marin County, yet the state provided only 24.66 per cent of its income, as compared to a statewide average of about 35 per cent.

THE LETTER went on to recount an experience which may be typical of the sort of bureaucratic obstacles encountered by many California school districts.

Fairfax, related the board, applied for a Miller-Unruh Act reading specialist program in June, 1968, and was notified promptly that it was approved. The district hired teachers. Then, early in September, it received notice the state could not fund the program. Result: the district had to transfer $20,000 from capital outlay to pay the teachers already hired.

Last May, Fairfax district again applied for a reading project. In August, it was notified data must be submitted school-by-school rather than district-wide, and must be received by Sept. 15. The letter noted this date was five days after school started.

In October, the district was notified that the program was approved for only one of its four schools – and that one, according to Hammond and the board, was the one least in need of it.

THE SUPERINTENDENT was informed no change could be made in the program funded by the state, that it must be in operation by Nov. 3, and "only Miller-Unruh qualified teachers could be used."

The district had a first grade teacher who held a master's degree with reading as her specialty, but to qualify she had to take a test for a Miller-Unruh certificate – and the test would not be given until Nov. 8 five days after deadline for the program to start.

Again, Fairfax got no Miller-Unruh Act reading funds.

"WE MAKE NO attempt to fix blame for this situation," the board wrote Reagan and the legislators, "but merely state the facts...

"The board urges you to bring all your efforts to bear on bringing education out of the financial mire into which it has been forced by inadequate finance, political boondoggling, ignorance and neglect...

"If the state guarantees to each district a realistic per-pupil cost of education based on a minimum local tax effort, then the property taxpayer will get the relief that the politicians have been promising him."

At least, he wouldn't have to dig deeper and deeper to provide the schools enough money to offer basic edication at the same time the legislators vote more and more funds for special classes and the State Department of Education surrounds these with stultifying rules.

Nigeria Blocks Food Supplies Into Biafra

By U. P. International

Tons of relief supplies for starving Biafrans piled up throughout the world today, blocked by the Nigerian government from entering the country. A Vatican magazine questioned whether Biafra should have surrendered.

A Swedish relief organization said the Lagos government's rejection of outside aid was deliberate genocide and a Danish agency said it had ordered its pilots to try to fly supplies in anyway at the risk of being shot down.

The Nigerian government scored the aid offers, calling them "blood money," and Lagos spokesmen ridiculed Pope Paul VI's statements of anxiety over the fate of the Biafrans, most of whom are Christian Ibo tribesmen.

However, the League of Red Cross Societies in Geneva said Nigeria had accepted a Red Cross offer to rush food to an estimated 1.2 million starving refugees. Nigeria stipulated the League must handle all relief materials through the Nigerian Red Cross and that the International Committee of the Red Cross stick to its traditional role of caring for the interests of prisoners of war and reuniting families.

The Vatican magazine Osservatore Della Domenica said in its issue out today that only time would tell whether Biafran leader Gen. Odumegwu Ojukwu was right or wrong in his contention that the Nigerians would slaughter the Ibos if they won the war.

In Paris, France formally expressed its concern about the fate of the Biafran population and urged the United Nations to organize "material and moral aid" to the conquered state.

Government spokesman Leo Hamon told newsmen after a cabinet session that President Georges Pompidou had "expressed his deep emotion in face of the tragic situation in Biafra."

U.S. Planes Shoot Up Red Convoy On Laotian Trail

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. PLANES in their most successful Laotian raid in weeks caught a North Vietnamese truck convoy loaded with war supplies and destroyed 21 vehicles and damaged four others, informed Allied sources said today.

The attacks were carried out Sunday by AC130 gunships, former transport planes converted into flying arsenals. The sources said they caught a 35-truck convoy in a crossfire as it moved down the so-called Ho Chi Minh Trail.

Each of the planes, which flew into Laos from Thailand, was armed with four Gatling guns capable of firing a total of 24,000 rounds per minute, and two 20 millimeter cannon.

The sources said the gunships sealed off the convoy's route of escape by unleashing their firepower from both the north and south ends of the high speed jungle road.

The raid coincided with reports North Vietnam pushed an estimated 15,000 trucks laden with war goods through Laos last month. The Communists also have moved antiaircraft guns and surface-to-air missiles into Laos from North Vietnam, but there were no reports of damage to the attack planes.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

How To Qualify As Head Of Household For Tax Purposes

Wikel

You never married, or,

Your spouse died in a prior year (if your spouse died in 1969, you may file a joint return and if he or she died in 1967 or 1968, you may be able to compute your tax as though you were filing a joint return), or,

You are divorced or legally separated under a court decere at the end of 1969, or,

Your spouse was a non-resident alien at any time during 1969 and

You have lived in and maintained, by paying over one-half of the cost for all of 1969, a home in which a close relative lived as his principal place of residence for the entire year, or until his death. A child, grandchild or stepchild need not be your dependent to qualify you, but any other close relative must be your dependent. It is not necessary that you or the relative actually stay at home every day, but that the home be the principal place of residence.

You may also qualify if you pay more than one-half of the cost of maintaining a household for your father or mother if you can claim either one as a dependent on your tax return. It is not necessary that you yourself live at this home.

If your taxable income is over $500 and you are the head of a household, mark square No. 4 on Form 1040 and figure your tax from the special head of household table.

For California tax purposes, you must be unmarried, otherwise, the rules are substantially the same and you use a special tax table. Being Head of Household on the California return qualifies you for a $50 credit, the same as a married couple.

Air West Stock Issue On Agenda

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An Air West spokesman said yesterday directors will meet in the near future to schedule a stockholders vote on a proposed $30 million issue of new preferred stock.

The Civic Aeronautics Board last month approved purchase of Air West by Hughes Air Corp., a subsidiary of Hughes Tool Co.

The Air West spokesman said legal representative of Hughes and the air line were working meanwhile to complete required moves for the Hughes acquisition.

Air West, operating 9,000 miles of routes from Calgary, Canada, to Mexico, acknowledged last week that it had been in arrears on payments to some airports.

The spokesman said Air West had submitted proposals for complete settlement over a period of time. A number of airport managements have reported acceptance, he said, and others have not yet completed action.

San Francisco's Population Off

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A nonscientific survey by the city government shows that San Francisco's population has decreased since 1960 and includes 100,000 fewer whites.

The survey made by Miss Mildred Holota, chief of records and statistics, was released Tuesday by Dr. Ellis D. Sox, public health director.

She estimated the population now at 706,900 compared with 740,316 in 1960. There were 604,403 whites in 1960 compared with 504,000 now, she added.

In 1960 there were 135,913 nonwhites, compared now with 202,900. Present population includes 102,000 Negroes, she said.

Insurance Survey

Directors of the Kentfield Fire District will review the last insurance survey of the district in 1962 at today's meeting at 8 p.m. at the firehouse, Fire Chief Kenneth T. Kamp reported.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

A Volatile Concept Stock: Alphanumeric

BY ROGER E. SPEAR

Q—Would you kindly give me some information on Alphanumeric? Ibought at $35; it is now $15.–E.R.

A— Alphanumeric was one of those "Wall Street Wonders" that crop up from time to time. Shares were eagerly bid up to $84 in 1968 in spite of a record of operating losses and no sales dating back to 1965. The "concept" that inspired the frenzied buying was a high-speed computerized photocomposing, typesetting and printing system.

Equipment sales reached $640,000 in 1968 with a deficit of $1.2 million. Through Sept. 30, 1969, sales were $2.1 million and the operating loss had been cut to $287,190.

However, the small-equal to 1 cent a share–profit reported in the third quarter would probably not have been earned under the company's previous accounting policy, but in the second quarter management elected to defer certain development cost and amortize these over a three-year period.

The company has a service center in New York City which offers a full range of printing services. Similar centers in Los Angeles and Chicago have been opened recently. These centers are expected to begin contributing to sales and profits.

The sophistication and cost-speed ratio of its equipment is unquestioned but under today's market conditions investors are looking for profits as well. Given a hot market, Alphanumeric could once again show real bounce.

Q—I have been periodically investing in Equity Growth Fund. Can you give me your opinion of this fund?–E.S.

A— Founded in 1966, Equity Growth, a diversified common stock growth fund, recorded above-average gains in 1967 and 1968. Through November, 1969, net asset value was down less than 10 per cent, better performance than an average of all mutual funds which had declined over 12 per cent. Distributions in 1969 amounted to $0.07 from investment income and $1.60 in capital gains distribution. It is difficult to assess such a new fund but based on its limited record Equity Growth has done a creditable job. If growth is your primary investment objective, then continue to build up this holding.

Auto Hits Tree; Professor Hurt

A Sonoma State College professor was injured yesterday at 10:25 p.m. when his car struck a tree on Old Redwood Highway, north of Petaluma.

John Rohrman Jr., 31, of 6467 Eagle Ridge Road, Penngrove, was treated for head and hand cuts at Petaluma General Hospital and transferred in good condition to Warrack Hospital, Santa Rosa.

Ray Stanley Kelly, 18, of 30 Princess Street, Sausalito, was committed to the Community Mental Health Center at Marin General Hospital for observation yesterday after he was found hallucinating in the middle of Bridgeway at 12:07 a.m., Sausalito police reported.

Slippery Catch

WOLVERHAMPTON, England (AP) — Terry Holman, an expert with hook and line fished 5 pounds worth of bananas through the mail slot of a supermarket here. He was caught as he tried to slip away with his haul and fined five pounds in court.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

VAN DELLEN

A SWOLLEN leg or arm is a physical handicap, but the appearance of the limb is emotionally disturbing, especially to women who cannot hide or camouflage the deformity.

I am reminded of a widow who was regarded as a recluse by the neighbors. She lived alone, never venturing out of doors, except at night to walk her dog.

Once when she developed a cold and asked me to make a house call, I saw at once the reason for her odd behavior. Her left arm was twice its normal size.

THREE YEARS previously her left breast was removed because of cancer. All the surrounding tissues, including the glands in the armpits, were taken out. The operation went well but the arm began to swell several weeks after she returned from the hospital.

Treatment was ineffective, and she became so disturbed about the appearance of the arm, she refused to be seen in public.

Furthermore, the arm bothered her physically. It was heavy and painful and at times felt so distended and tight she was afraid the skin might break open.

I persuaded her to return to the hospital where the arm was elevated in a special frame and she received daily massage by a trained therapist.

PAIN DISAPPEARED within 24 hours and the arm returned to its normal size within two weeks. She wore an elastic bandage during the day and was instructed to elevate the arm at night when sleeping. Even though the limb continued to become slightly swollen by the end of the day, an amazing change took place in her mental outlook, and she no longer was a hermit.

(Question on medical topics will be answered by mail if stampd, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

CAUSES OF STRIAE

REPLY

The elastic fibers of the skin rupture when the breast tissue is stretched during pregnancy. This leads to the formation of these depressions or striae. In some instances, the marks are pinkish or slightly bluish, whereas in others they have a silvery appearance. Striae of the abdomen are most common in women who have been pregnant or have lost considerable weight. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this conditfon.

SLEEP PARALYSIS

W.P.R. writes: Is there such a thing as waking up mentally but not physically? On four separate occasions I've had the experience of waking up but have been unable to move my body for several minutes.

REPLY

These episodes have all the earmarks of sleep paralysis. In this condition, the person is awake but cannot move for a moment or two. The experience may be terrifying but the slightest movement breaks the spell.

AN AUTHENTIC DISEASE

B.A.M.B. writes: Is Hong Kong flu a real risease or is it fictitious?

REPLY

Influenza is caused by many diffrent viruses. Hong Kong flu is so named because this particular virus was discovred originally there. In this respect, it is an authenetic disease. Should you develop it, I am sure you will agree that it is not a fictitous disorder.

WEIGHT IN PREGNANCY

REPLY

Yes. A digestive problem usually is responsible.

VEINS AND PHLEBITIS

REPLY

Yes.

India Next Stop For POWs' Wives

MOSCOW (AP) — Their effort to meet with wives of Soviet officials a failure, four Southern California women said Monday they will fly to New Delhi, India, seeking to learn the fates of their husbands, missing in Vietnam.

"No one wanted to see us," said Mrs. Arthur s. Mearns of Los Angeles. "So we're flying to New Delhi Tuesday to see Prime Minister Indira Gandhi."

Mrs. Mearns, Mrs. Roosevelt Hestle of Los Angeles, Mrs. Stephen of El Toro and Mrs John Hardy of Azusa had flown to Moscow to seek meetings with Mrs. Andrei Gromyko, wife of the Soviet foreign minister, and Valentina Nikolayeva-Tereshkova, the world's only women's cosmonaut, who is now chairman of the Soviet Women's Committee.

Mrs. Mearns said her group wanted to make a woman-to-woman appeal for help in getting the North Vietnamese government to say whether their husbands are prisoners of war.

Britain Gets A Look At The Windsors

LONDON (UPI)—The Duke of Windsor, who gave up the British throne to marry the American divorcee he loved, wanted to continue as king — but only on his own terms.

The 75-year-old duke made the disclosure Tuesday night during a 50-minute television interview with the British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC).

"I would have liked to have gone on being king, but I was going to do it under my own conditions," he said. "So I do not have any regrets."

The Duke and his 73-year-old Duchess, the former Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson of Baltimore, Md., were interviewed at their Paris home.

"America's one vast golf course today," the Duke said in recalling his impressions of the United States. "Golf is one of its big industries. It's a wonderful country and very invigorating. I like going there for the golf —I'm a very, very, very poor golfer, unfortunately."

Asked about miniskirts, the duchess cracked:

"Well, I think you certainly know what you are getting, don't you?"

The Duke ventured: "Some of them are too mini. But if (the girls) have got good underpinning, I think they're all right for the young."

The duchess grinned when asked the secret of keeping and looking young. "Oh, I don't know. I haven't got the secret yet."

Turning serious, she added: "I think happiness is the great secret. How you feel and look perhaps. We have been very happy."

The Duke cut in with a firm "yes." They unabashedly grasped each other's hand for a few seconds. "I am very happy," he said.

The Duke said he would not call himself a "reforming king." But, he said, "I wanted to be an up-to-date king. But I didn't have much time —I wasn't there long enough."

"Movement—Pep."

"How to speak nicely," said the American-born duchess.

Four In Court After Dope Raid In Terra Linda

Two of four persons arrested last Wednesday after drug agents received a tip that narcotics were being used in a Terra Linda residence have been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court.

Jerry Lee Urban, 27, of 798 Del Ganado Road, Terra Linda, was charged with possessing marijuana and Elizabeth Marie Mirabile, 40, of the same address, was accused of the misdemeanor offense of being in a place where drugs were used. Their cases were continued to Tuesday for entry of pleas.

Two others arrested at the same time, Philip Edward Clar, 23, of 314 Paloma Street, San Rafael, and Roberta Ruth Gausen, 23, of 539 Virginia Drive, Petaluma, are to appear in court again Jan. 23.

Clar is accused of using pot and Miss Gausen of being in a place where it was used.

An agent of the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau said that when he went to Urban's home, he saw Clar through a window smoking what appeared to be a marijuana cigarette.

The agent said that Urban later led the officers in a search of the house, where suspected marijuana and what appeared to be dangerous drugs were found. Urban also turned over about 200 pills and capsules he had in his car, the agent said.

Coal Mine Blown Up For British Telecast

WALDRIDGE, England (AP) — The state-run National Coal Board planned to demolish the disused coal mine here, but the BBC stepped in and stopped the operation at the last minute—so it could blow the pit up instead. The explosion will be the high spot of the BBC's most ambitious location drama broadcast, a five-part serial based on Emile Zola's novel Germinal about socialist revolution in 19th century France.

The wooden shoe, inseparably bound with the image of The Netherlands, is today worn by about only 700,000 of more than 12 million Dutchmen.

Errs In Report

A story in last Wednesday's Independent-Journal erred in saying that Larry Michael Roscoe, 21, of Fairfax had pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possessing marijuana. Instead, a co-defendant, Ronald Alan Johnson, 21, also of San Rafael, admitted possessing the pot, and the case was dismissed against Roscoe for lack of evidence.

Charge Increase Due Holders Of Health Plan

Monthly prepayment charges for members of the Kaiser Foundation Health Plan of Northern California will be increased by an average of 7.5 per cent starting April 1.

Frank Jones, health plan manager, attributed the increase to higher operating costs, increased salaries, wages and benefits for personnel and purchase of expensive equipment and cost of training persons to operate it.

Monthly increase for a single person enrolled in the plan amounts to 95 cents, for a married couple, $1.75, and for a family of three or more, $2.30, Jones said.

There will also be a 10 per cent increase in charges for the plan's 33,000 subscribers in the Medicare supplemental program, he added.

Romeos Thwarted

YEOVIL, England (AP) — Local Romeos flocked here when they heard 72 attractive teen-age girls were spending their vacation in a nearby country house. But they found their path barred by Somerset police guarding the girls for their influential fathers—they are all daughters of senior French police officers.

FACES DEMOTION--Old Bailey, the famous English criminal court, is facing some loss of power. The court tries all the most serious criminal cases in Great Britain. (UPI Telephoto)

Famed Old Bailey In Danger Of Being Demoted As Major Court

LONDON (UPI)—The Old Bailey, the London court where the famous and infamous were tried the right of juries to give verdicts according to their convictions was established, is in danger of being demoted.

Machinery has been put in motion to strip the Old Bailey of its status as England's central criminal court and abolish its special role as the court which tries all the most serious criminal cases.

Parliament will soon vote on a government proposal which would remove the Old Bailey from its present position under the authority of the City of London, the Roman square mile around which modern London grew and which now houses the financial district.

The government proposal would put the Old Bailey under federal jurisdiction and reduce it to a crown court on a lower level—equal but not superior to five other high courts in different parts of the country.

The government's plan would divide the big criminal cases, previously tried at the Old Bailey, among the five new high courts. The judges would no longer sit exclusively at the Old Bailey but would become circuit judges, roving from high court to high court.

"This would greatly reduce the generally efficiency of the Old Bailey," according to Sir Kingsley Collett, an official of the City of London's municipal government.

"Only a stationary judge can acquire the kind of specialized knowledge he needs for trying important criminal cases."

The most recent of the Old Bailey structures on the site, built in 1907, boasts above its dome one of the world's most celebrated statues—the Lady of Justice, holding sword and scales. Unlike justice elsewhere she wears no blindfold. In this place, said the Corporation of London when they raised her, justice will not be blind.

Sir Kingsley, who is waging a campaign to stop the government's proposals from going through, contends most of the ceremony and tradition of the Old Bailey would be lost if its ties with the city were severed.

"If this proposal is passed, a thousand years of history in the city of London will be wiped out," he said.

The City of London erected the first Old Bailey in 1539. Until then the Gatehouse of Newgate Prison largely had served as a court. The new building enjoyed a special status under the city's care and became, unofficially, the highest criminal court in the land.

There are other traditions connected with Old Bailey and the City of London, such as the colorful procession of the city's Lord Mayor, who parades through the streets with his high officers, dressed in scarlet robes and carrying swords and the Great Mace of the city, to formally open the court sessions each year.

The Old Bailey's demotion would mean the end of posie-carrying by the judges, a tradition started in 1750 to ward off "jail fever" brought into court by prisoners. The judges, "in order to disguise the small of unwashed bodies of murderers and felons," carried posies of sweet-smelling flowers and the floor of the court was strewn with strong-smelling herbs.

Under the government proposal, the Lord Mayor would no longer be a judge commissioner of the Old Bailey, and he would no longer preside over a lunch for the judges each day.

"This custom is actually more practical than ceremonial and its demise would do more harm than merely forcing the judges to eat at a local hash house," Sir Kingsley said. "The daily Lord Mayor's lunch gives the judges a chance to discuss new legal methods and meet different people from all walks of life."

Many famous trials have taken place in the Old Bailey, including those of Oscar Wilde, atom spy Dr. Klaus Fuchs, and such grisly mass murderers as John Christie, Neville Heath and John Haigh.

One of the most historic trials at the old court was that of William Penn in 1670. Penn and a friend, William Mead, were arrested after attending a Quaker meeting and charged with preaching to an unlawful assembly.

The jury, now known as "The Twelve Just and Angry Men," refused to return a verdict against the two Quakers. The infuriated judge locked them up for two nights without food and when they finally returned a verdict of not guilty, they were fined and four of them spent many months in jail.

A higher court ruling finally acquitted the jury and the precedent was established that no juryman can be punished for his verdict.

Peninsula Youth Is Opera Study Winner

NEW YORK (AP) — Christopher Keene, 22, has won the first Julius Rudel Award. The award was set up by Laurence E. Deutch and Lloyd Rigler of Los Angeles. The winner will join the New York City Opera for the company's 16-performance season in Los Angeles in November and then return to New York with the company to begin apprenticeship.

Keene, who is from Palo Alto, Calif., is a conductor who is meant to learn from Rudel "artistic and administrative knowledge required in the running of an opera company."

Pennsylvania Ballet Hired For New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York City Opera has engaged the Pennsylvania Ballet to perform "Carmina Burana" at the New York State Theater in the spring.

Choreographer John Butler created his dance version of "Carmina Burana" for the opera in 1959. He restaged it for the Pennsylvania Ballet in 1966.

THINGS ARE NOT ALWAYS WHAT THEY SEEM

This car looks like it ought to recalled to the factory but it will probably live happily ever after in Seattle, where it was photographed. Those oversize tires aren't the latest in foul-weather equipment. They aren't even optional equipment. The wheels belong to part of a fence. (AP Wirephoto)

Foundation Assists Musical Academy

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rockefeller Foundation has given $350,000 to the Brooklyn Academy of Music, for four of its resident companies.

The companies, which are to use the money to develop new works, are the Merce Cunningham Dance Company, the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater, American Ballet Company and Chelsea Theater Center.

Educational Lag

LONDON (AP) — Eight-year-old children in central London are six months behind country kids in their reading ability, education officials reported. The reasons: a large proportion of immigrants and children from poor families, and the fact that London teachers in infant schools change jobs frequently.

Wallet Held Best Spur To Better Environment

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A government scientist suggests that economic incentives will do more to reduce pollution and protect consumer health than regulatory "sanctions and coercion" or reliance on the "social responsibility" of private industry.

He also recommends that the government, in making "the very crucial decisions" affecting the quality of human life, convert the regulatory processes into an open forum in which the citizens' interests would be reprtsented by "public advocates or societal ombudsmen."

These views are presented in a Brookings Institution report of a study on "voluntary private behavior as a means to reduce consumer health hazards and environmental pollution" by Dr. Carl W. Bruch.

Bruch prepared the study during a year's leave of absence from the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) to which he has since returned as chief of the bacteriological branch, division of microbiology, of FDA's Bureau of Science.

Lawmaker Challenges DMV Voter Sale Of Information

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, has asked the attorney general to investigate whether private firms are being permitted to illigally sell public records belonging to the state Department of Motor Vehicles.

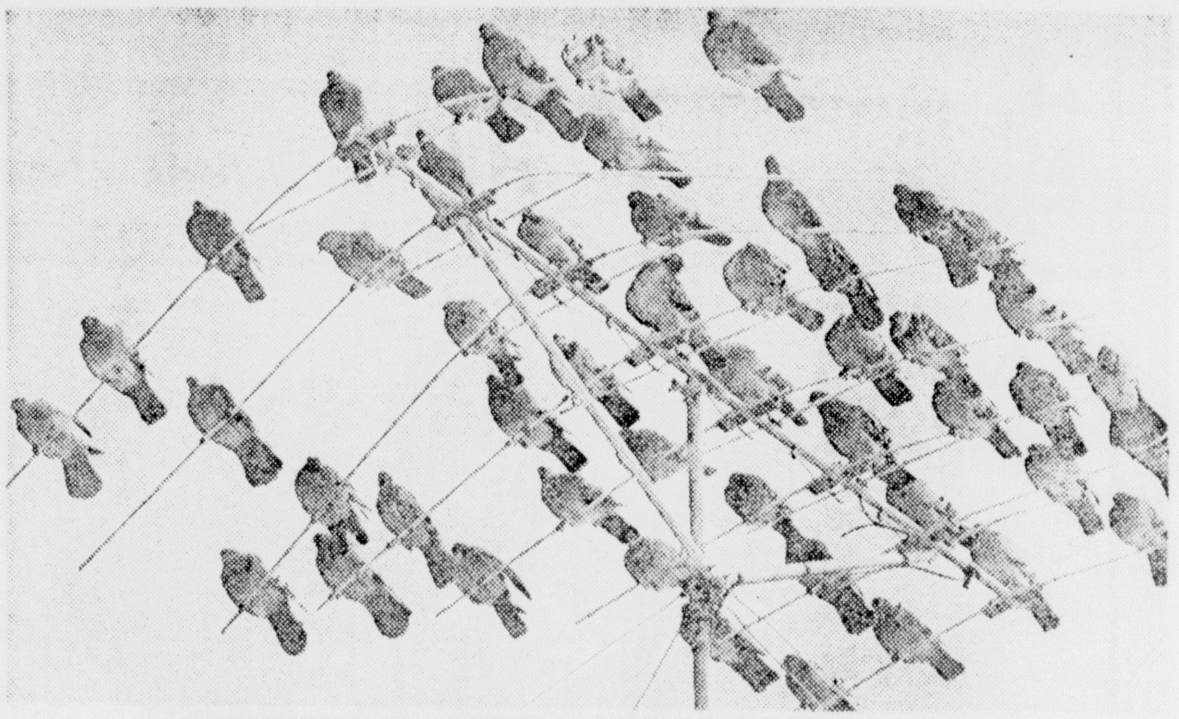

Campbell produced a list of 11 firms which occupy space within the DMV, collect motor vehicle records and sell them. In most cases, he said, the firms pay very little rent. Three companies, including the Bank of America, pay no rent at all.

Campbell questioned the legality of one recent incident. He said the Coast Guard requested information from the DMV about the current address of a reservist. The Guard received the information from a private company, called "Circular Identification Bureau," and a bill for $2.

Campbell said "state law permits such information to be provided free to governmental agencies."

Verne Orr, now state finance director but formerly the DMV director, agreed that the Coast Guard had a right to the information without charge. He said he couldn't understand how the firm received the request for information because "we don't refer any business."

He said private firms "have no access to our mail" and are contacted separately by persons desiring information.

HUNTING GOOD, RECEPTION ISN'T

Pigeon hunters in Daytona Beach would love to take a shot at Mrs. Virginia Shioli's roof, where 50 pigeons have decided to make their home. Although she doesn't feed them, the pigeons pay their heavy visit to the antenna every afternoon. (UPI Telephoto)

Small Town Studies Ways To Get Rid Of Pesticides

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (UPI)—Research is underway here to find a way to neutralize lethal leftovers of pesticides and dispose safely of the cans and barrels in which they came.

Bert Wilcox, agricultural extension agent for Klamath County, said the project will involve two processes.

In one, a two-acre collection site will be established west of the little town of Merrill for the insecticide, herbicide and soil fumigant containers. These will be treated with chemicals which scientists hope will break down the toxic materials enough so the containers can be baled and sold as scrap metal.

In the second process, the liquid drained from the containers will be spread over a

Insurance Idea

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — After almost four years of study, an advisory committee of citizens and insurance men has suggested the "open competition" method of allowing companies to fix rates without giving prior notice to the Insurance Department. The 1970 General Assembly is expected to approve such a law.

WISE OLD OWL?

This Little Rock, Ark. owl may be wise, but he certainly can't read. He stayed perched on this "No Parking" sign for a full day before flitting off to some new adventure. Sign was on Little Rock's main street. (AP Wirephoto)

CAUGHT, RED-BEAKED

Nobody seems to know why, but Blackie, an enterprising crow in Ogden, Utah, seems to dig parking tickets. He stole tickets from auto windshields for several days, but nobody found out what he did with them. He certainly didn't pay them. The recipient may well have been a prisoner in the nearby city jail . . . where the crow occasionally delivered cigarette butts. (UPI TELEPHOTO) nearby plot about 16 feet square. The soil will be monitored on each side as will the atmosphere above the plot to determine whether the toxic matrials move in any direction or are vaporized.

In addition to being treated with chemicals, the toxic residue will be subject to the working of soil microrganisims, soil chemistry and solar radiation, Wilcox said.

"Scientists feel hopeful that within a five-year period the plot treated this year will be reusable, that the chemicals will be gone and the land can be reclaimed for use for other purposes," Wilcox said.

The diposal project was initiated two years ago by local residents who organized a committee on agricultural chemicals. It decided ways were needed to dispose of the containers now found stacked around airstrips, behind farm buildings and in ditches.

The committee wrote all other 49 states to learn what steps had been taken to solve the problem of containers and leftovers 40 states," Wilcox said. "They all had the problem but none had the solution."

So the local group applied for a federal grant. The U.S. Public Health Service awarded $63,000 to the Klamath project and another waste disposal experiment underway in neighboring Lake County involving larger amounts of a few chemicals.

Economics, Environment Are Linked and solid waste pollution," Bruch says, "I feel that the direct regulatory approach with coercion or sanctions will not bring about the necessary improvements in environmental quality needed to protect the public interest.

"Some form of economic intentive must be provided to private industry to consider pollution abatement actions in their investment decisions."

"I do not believe," he says, "that our society can place primary reliance on the resolution of its problems through the social responsibility doctrine now being promulgated by the business community.

"It is not the vocation of the businessman to (be) the shepherd or determiner of society's values. If society places this responsibility on the individual businessman, it puts upon him decisions that he is not competent to make."

Present regulatory agencies have got bogged down into a sort of bad-guy, good-guy state of mind, Bruch seems to say. This is the "adversary relationship" in which batteries of lawyers representing the regulated confront other batteries representing the regulators in a courtroom atmosphere having little to do with either the scientific facts or the public interest.
